Greeting

FOR the Junior Class of the University of Maine, its Board of Editors presents this, the 1908 PRISM, to the university, hoping that while its all too apparent and numerous flaws may be overlooked, it may succeed in casting on the screen of its pages some suggestion of the variegated spectrum of college life during the past year at Maine.

If in the portrayal of this spectrum some of the colors seem harsh and glaring to a few, we ask them to take it all in good part, remembering that in most cases the unharmonious rays are more evanescent than the humorous truths which they present for your amusement.

Sincere thanks are extended to every person who has in any way whatsoever aided in the compilation of this volume.

Finally, if through this PRISM any of that charm and glamour which really surrounds student life at Maine has been pictured, then be it ever so poor, the book does not exist in vain.

Geo E Fellows

To

Dr. George Emory Fellows

who, against great obstacles, by sheer force of character and conscientious endeavor for the betterment of our Alma Mater, has won his way into the hearts of the student body and has placed the University of Maine upon a collegiate standing far higher than it has ever before occupied, this book is gratefully dedicated.

DR. GEORGE EMORY FELLOWS

GEORGE EMORY FELLOWS, President of the University of Maine, was born at Beaver Dam, Wisconsin, June 9, 1858. He attended for a time the Academy of Northwestern University; graduated later at Lawrence University, Appleton, Wisconsin, in 1879; studied at the University of Munich, 1888-89, and at the University of Berne, 1890, where he took the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. He was granted the honorary degree of LL.D. by Bowdoin College, 1902, and that of L.H.D. by Lawrence University in the same year. He married in 1881, Lucia Russell, of Fond-du-Lac, Wisconsin. He taught for ten years in various high schools, among others at Appleton, Wisconsin, New Orleans, Louisiana and Aurora, Illinois. He was Professor of European History at Indiana University from 1891 to 1895; Assistant Professor of History in the University of Chicago, 1895-1902; President of the University of Maine since 1902; member of the American Historical Association of the New Orleans Academy of Science and various educational societies; has been secretary and treasurer of the National Association of State Universities for some years. Aside from many articles in various magazines, he is the author of Outlines of the Sixteenth Century, published in 1895, and of Recent European History, published in 1902.

Such is the brief memorandum of the important academic events in the life of President Fellows. Such a sketch, of course, gives no indication of the character of the man, or of the qualities which have made him a successful leader in his day and generation. I have had the pleasure of knowing President Fellows for more than fifteen years, and have watched his work with increasing admiration, and I may add, pride. I was associated with him for a time at the University of Chicago, and had an opportunity to see the manifestation of the qualities which have placed him in his present high position. But after all a man's real character is determined before he is thirty years of age, about which time I made his acquaintance, and the testimony of other people who knew him as a boy and young man is even more significant than anything which I might say.

He was only twenty-one, according to the account which one of his early friends gives me, when he graduated at Lawrence University. A man sitting in the audience on the commencement occasion, who was agent and trustee, urged him to become principal of Eau Claire Seminary, Wisconsin, which position he held for one year. In this position he showed the qualities which have ripened with the years and which explain his success. Dr. O. A. Chapell of Elgin, Illinois, in a most interesting letter to me says that "the position was one of unusual difficulty, but Dr. Fellows was master of it from the beginning. His enthusiasm was boundless and he imparted it to us all in play and work alike. The influence of such a personality is beyond compare. I consider myself very fortunate to have been one of his pupils."

Another of his former pupils at Eau Claire, now Assistant General Superintendent of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company, says that "his pupils in the Eau Claire Seminary were over-grown Wisconsin forest products which we sometimes called Indians, and if he had gone at us wrong we would have put him out of business in the twinkling of an eye, but he came at us right, and such hold did he get on the hearts of the fellows that unconsciously there was drilled into our retentive and rebellious minds knowledge which helped us in our future life and principles for manhood which have stood by us ever since. President Fellows is one of the strong nails which hold the universe together and make for this country better citizens than any other nation of the globe possesses."

A year's work in the active pastorate in small Wisconsin towns gave him a touch with certain very important aspects of life, and an experience which has proved of great value to him.

Two years he spent as Vice Principal of the Ryan High School in Appleton, Wisconsin, and one of his old pupils, Dr. Sanborn, writes me his recollection of President Fellows as "a man of very high ideals, and much concerned about the mental and moral welfare of his students. His departure from the school was felt as a personal loss, and all of us have watched his climb to eminence in the educational world with great satisfaction."

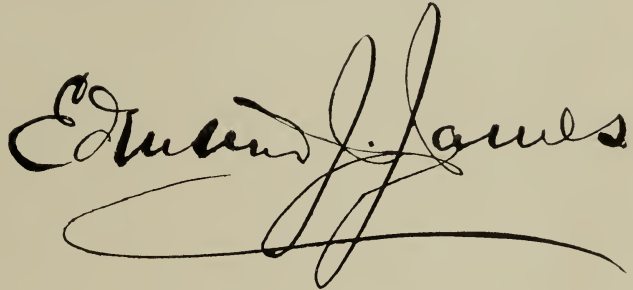

The next three years he spent as instructor in the Central High School of New Orleans, Louisiana. One of his friends during that period touches upon a very important quality which explains much of President Fellows' after success. He writes, "One of President Fellows' characteristics which endears him to his friends, as you know, is his generous appreciation of the work of others. This quality was manifest from the first. He was a tried optimist and helpful friend, and whoever portrays his character must dwell with appreciation on his unflinching energy, his courageous optimism, and his militant wrath at the shadow or substance of injustice."

President Fellows left New Orleans High School in 1888 to take up his studies in Europe. When he returned, after a brief period in the high school at Aurora, Illinois, he was called to Indiana University. From this time his career is a matter of history, known to everyone.

The space assigned for this brief biographical notice is perhaps already overrun, and I can only add one word to the effect that President Fellows has been one of the strongest influences for good in the National Association of State University Presidents. In fact the association was on the verge of expiring when he became secretary, and he instilled into it new life.

The people of Maine, the Faculties of the University of Maine, and the students of the institution present and prospective, are to be congratulated that the trustees of the university were wise enough to call to its head a man with such broad training and outlook, and the alumni of the university and the citizens of the state can do no wiser thing than uphold his hands and follow his advice as he unfolds and develops his statesman-like projects.

A large, elegant handwritten signature in dark ink, reading "Edmund J. James". The signature features a prominent, sweeping underline that extends across the width of the name.

President of the University of Illinois.

SENIOR HISTORY

THE history of the Seniors is best and briefest told by relating in a straightforward manner, the great and glorious deeds of the class of 1907, a class which has many a time "wept because there were no more worlds to conquer."

Our entrance into this institution was humble. We thought it best to begin that way, and we were forcibly aided in this thought by a crowd of uncivilized savages, whom we recognized with difficulty as Sophomores. We received the usual course of instruction at their hands, and that first year we kept them pretty fairly busy keeping us in the straight and narrow path. We did not let them have things all their own way, and the scrap that followed our victory over them in basketball, when we advertised the score in chapel, will go down to posterity as one of the fiercest battles the University of Maine has ever seen.

As Sophomores, we took the reins into our own hands and pointed out a rigorous course for the Freshmen to follow. And they followed it. By the frequent application of the bed slat and the water cure, we were enabled to keep them under our protecting wing, so that no unnecessary harm came to the children.

We had by this time developed athletes among our number, whose exploits were a credit to themselves and to their Alma Mater. Ponto Wyman had already broken the college record in the quarter mile. Spider St. Onge had shown himself to be a capable athlete. Ray Quint had entered the ranks of football and baseball, while such men as Dick Matheas, Bill Stone, Dick Talbot, Porter Swift and others were earning names for themselves on the gridiron.

We also showed up the usual number of curiosities. General Hooper got into the habit of thundering down the Campus with his military footfall, awakening the virgin echoes of the forest, taking charge of the college work (in his mind) with all the coolness of a natural leader. Pomp Merrill was beginning to be a conspicuous figure about the Campus, and Frank Alton really enjoyed a smoke now and then.

So we ended our Sophomore year profitably, and started upon our Junior year. We went about our work now with the air of persons long accustomed to it, and thought it was an insult if the faculty called us up to give us a warning about our work. It was in this year that we inaugurated the nominating committee, — an idea that was successfully carried out — and is now being followed with good results by other classes. It was during this year, too, that we got our PRISM out on time, for the first time, we think, in the history of the institution. Near the end of our Junior year, some of our men aided materially in the winning of the Maine Intercollegiate Athletic Association Meet at Lewiston. Wyman, St. Onge, Clayton and others did themselves proud that day, and brought glory to their college in a substantial way.

Now we are Seniors, looking gravely on at the pranks of the younger undergraduates, and wondering what will happen to us when we get out into the cold world. Already we have added another achievement to our list in the form of a Senior Honorary Society which some of our members organized, composed of the eleven best men in the Senior class. Did we blow up "64?" We don't dare to say.

Arad Barrows can "sing a little tenor, also a little baritone, also a little bass." Squab Martin talks as much as ever. Tom Malloy has reformed and even attends chapel now and then. As for the rest, wherever we go, and whatever this world has to offer, we shall always do our best to further the interests of our Alma Mater.

SENIOR COLLEGE HONORS.

JUNIOR HISTORY

THE room is dimly lighted by a student lamp, whose green shade illumines the old familiar surroundings with a ghoulish gloom and throws uncanny shadows on the walls. Over the bright circle of light bends a student, as

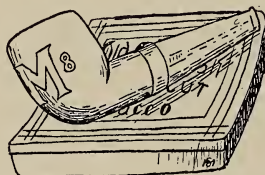

“Over his pen the musing calculist,
Beginning doubtfully and far away,
First lets his ideas wander where they list
And draws a curve from dreamland for his play.”

Hush! He is mumbling to himself:
$$“\frac{d^2y}{dt^2} = -cw^2(\sin wt + \frac{\cos^4 wt - (\frac{r^2}{c^2}) \cos 2 wt}{(\frac{r^2}{c^2} - \cos^2 wt)^{\frac{3}{2}}})”$$

“Yes, Scissors says that is ‘foohl seemplah and moah kommpackt’ than any acceleration we have had since our Freshman year — our Freshman year — what acceleration did we have in our Freshman year — O, Stub Wildes and his wild and wooly gang furnished most of it then. What was the magnitude of the force of Fat Lanpher in the night-shirt parade; $F = ma$, mass times acceleration, and they both approach infinity. He must have had considerable force that night. That was the first time the fiendish yell of the razoo reached our ears. How many times it echoed through the chilly night before the year was gone. Then there was the flag scrap for which we fought in vain; the baseball games all won by ’08; the peanut scrap at which ’07 bought the peanuts for us ; the impromptu chapel rush at which we tried our best to stave up the chapel so that we could be excused from the arduous duty of attending ; the splendours of our Freshman function, the Military Ball ; the Indoor Meet at which '08 gained second place ; and the Sophomore Hop at which we furnished a short period of darkness to give variety to the festivities of the frivolling Sophomores. Then there was the Freshman Banquet, when Dan Chase and the banquet committee showed that they knew the train schedules to Ellsworth better than they did their trig final next day. After the Easter recess came what Paddy Huddilstone called the "fastest day" he ever lived, when everyone attended chapel in the square in Orono and a run on the ticket office of the Bangor Theatre followed in the afternoon. Then with the last scrap in the historic Frog Pond, '07 and '08 buried the paddle."

But it was quickly dug up again under the leadership of "Pa" Hanscom, and then it was we who sent the Freshmen down the yelling line in the old, familiar way, but we laid it on harder when they tried to give us raw peanuts. Freshman trick ! There was that hundred to one shot on '09, the Sophomore—Freshman football game. But such is the uncertainty of life. There was the great game of the "beef trust" on Whittier Field with a touchdown in the first five minutes, and the championship. There was Henry Miner, Big Smith, Claude Meserve and Ikey Mitchell with the laurels of football, track and tennis hanging over their heads ; and our "Hop," with its elaborate electrical display ; and our spring razoo which turned into a rush with twice as many Freshmen as Sophomores ; and the endless round of plugging, loafing, smoking and "chewing the rag" which brought '08 around to her Junior year ; and there was Porter Swift's impassioned plea for the Y. M. C. A. and — Wow ! Out of the pages of the book leaps a full grown sine curve, seizes the man by his flowing beard and leads him rapidly back—back—back—to Bal—no—to earth and a realization of the fact that he has been going through the motions of plugging for an hour without knowing it.

JUNIOR HONORS

Bean, Anna Coffin, $\Delta \Sigma$, Haverhill, Mass.
Haverhill High School. Scientific
Entered Junior Year from Simmons College.

This Co-ed's fondest ambition is to become a member of the Massachusetts Club. At present, however, she is obliged to be content with serving as one of the two active members of the "Woman's Auxiliary."

Bean, Chester Howe, $\Phi H K$, Bethel
Gould's Academy. Civil Engineering
'Varsity Track (2).

Chester is somewhat of a plugger. They even say at the Hall that he lets plugging interfere with his regular college course. Nevertheless, he is well liked by those who know him best.

Beedle, Arthur Lawrence, "Bug," South Gardiner
Gardiner High School. Electrical Engineering

Bug started in with '07, but, with the phenomenal sagacity often displayed by those taking the "man's course," he dropped back a class and added to the ranks of '08. As the electrician his most arduous duty this year has been in reading the meter at the coop; this, being a very delicate instrument, required constant care and attention and seemed to give Bug a great deal of trouble.

Blair, Arthur Adolphus, B. D., Oldtown
Entered Sophomore Year from Tufts Theological School.
Classical
Chaplain, Ivy Day (3).

Out of respect for members of the cloth we can't roast him, although there is a big temptation to get back on him for that long sermon which he preached Sunday morning.

Boyle, Claude, "Buster," A T Ω, Dover
Foxcroft Academy. Chemical
Manager Class Basketball (1); Class Football (2); Glee Club (1), (2), (3); Leader Glee Club (3); Assistant Leader Glee Club (2); College Choir (2), (3); Class Vice President (2).

Buster would like to have you know that there is no place on earth like D-o-v-e-r, Maine. Even though he has, since entering college, been as far away from his beloved village as Boston he has not changed his ideas in the least. He has a most marked tendency to fall in love with every pretty face he meets. Since his Freshman cut him out on the "only girl", C. Boyle (no middle initial we would have you understand) has rapidly gone to the bad.

Brown, Sarah Ellen, $\Delta \Sigma$, Oldtown
Oldtown High School. Classical
PRISM (3); Class Nominating Committee (3); Junior Promenade Committee (3).

Sarah really doesn't want to say it, but she thinks Professor Lentz is a tease and too inquisitive for anything. Now will you be good, Professor?

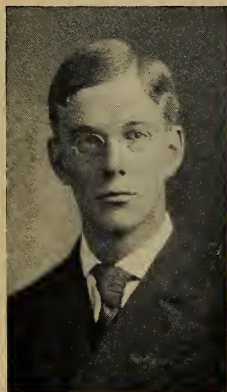

Brownell, Chester Arthur, "Ole Bull," ΘE , Newport, R. I.
Rogers High School. Civil Engineering
Sophomore Prize Declamations; Aid Junior Promenade.

About once in so often Ole has one of his "spells," when in a wild flight of imagination he believes he is the reincarnation of his famous namesake. At these times his old fiddle will shriek and moan for hours at a time; and when it is all over Ole is a nervous and physical wreck. Between times Ole studies industriously, and recuperates on a corn-cob that has broken all existing strength records.

Chase, Daniel, "Dan," $\Sigma A E$, Baring
Hebron Academy. Classical
Class Basketball (1), (2); Class Football (2); Class Baseball (1), (2); 'Varsity Football (2); 'Varsity Baseball (1), (2); Class President (1); Vice President Y. M. C. A. (3); Delegate Student Volunteer Convention, Nashville, Tenn., (2); Delegate Northfield Conference (2); President Debating Club (3); Manager Debating Team (2); President Literati (2); Student Council (3); Secretary Literati (3); President Hebron Club (2); Junior Promenade Committee (3); Class Historian (3).

After Dan's visits to Hebron he can be seen going around the campus with a far-away look on his face while he constantly hums to himself the tune "Alice, where art thou." This may account for his inability to rise early enough to don a collar and necktie before presenting himself to Scissors in the morning.

Cobb, William Alfred, "Bill," $\Phi K \Sigma$, Auburn
Edward Little High School. Civil Engineering
Class Vice President (1); Secretary-Treasurer Twin City
Club (2); Class Track Team (1), (2); Varsity Track Team (2).

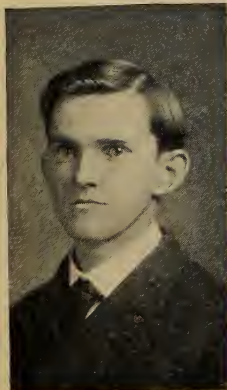

Bill votes the Republican ticket, though he is no relation to the Governor. He is rather a quiet chap, in fact a little too glum at times for companion's sake. We don't know whether this is due to Bill's brooding over the large number of ties between the campus and Old Town, or to other causes.

Coleman, Everett Clinton, "Coley," $\Omega \Lambda \Upsilon$, Roxbury, Mass.

Roxbury High School. Chemical
Mandolin Club (2); Class Nominating Committee (2);
Sergeant (2); First Lieutenant (3).

Coley is a fellow who knows slightly more than appearances would seem to indicate. He is noted for the number and variety of his pipes which are always on exhibition for the benefit of admiring freshmen.

Collins, Bernard Ira, "Pat," Haverhill, Mass.

Haverhill High School. Civil Engineering
Sergeant Major (2); First Lieutenant and Adjutant (3);
Secretary and Treasurer Massachusetts Club (3); Aid Junior Promenade.

A semi-sagacious look and a ready assurance have won for this man an exaggerated reputation. As a freshman he was the Grand Exalted Rague Choir of the W. C. T. U. Ruff Haus Gangue which died a sad and untimely death after three weeks of "strenuosity."

Cram, Edward Winslow, "Gus," K Σ, Portland
Portland High School. Civics
Manager Class Track Team (1); Campus Board (1), (2);
Executive Committee Athletic Association (3).

Nobody knows what Gussie intends to be. We all know that he isn't studying for anything. But whether he goes into farming, or engineering, or the ministry, one thing is pretty certain—he will "get there."

Crowell, Philip Holmes, "P. H.," A T Ω, Bangor
Orono High School. Civil Engineering

The trip Phil took into the Canadian wilds last summer has furnished a naturally inventive mind with material for some of the most fluent prevarications ever released into the atmosphere of our rigid climate. If we believed one-half he says we should live in an altogether different world. As some one has said, "P. H." is true to his name for he certainly can Crow well.

Cummings, Robert Lincoln, "Munchie," Φ Γ Δ, Gorham
Gorham High School. Electrical Engineering
Class Football (2). ♪

Munchie is such a nice boy we hate to say anything against him. He isn't much for good looks but to hear him talk you would think he had broken all the hearts in Gorham.

Dixon, Leon Snell, "Dick," Σ X,

Orono

Orono High School.

Civil Engineering

Class Baseball (2).

Three years of university life have given Dick a running start on the downward road to ruin. He now sometimes lets as many as two nights a week go without plugging and has become so depraved that on rare occasions he will sit up as late as ten o'clock at night eating peanuts. It is a question whether he will weather this fast life long enough to get his B. S.

Dow, Owen Oscar, "Hiram," Φ Γ Δ,

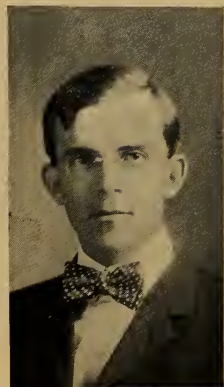

Hiram

Fryeburg Academy.

Scientific

Class Baseball (1), (2); 'Varsity Baseball (2).

Hiram is so broken up over the fact that his guardian, Mr. Rogers, is no longer his instructor, that we hesitate to inflict any further punishment. We will say that he carries the same old foolish grin to hide his sorrow.

Draper, Clifford Lester, Θ E,

Stoneham, Mass.

Stoneham High School.

As we sit and watch Drape taking chapel attendance each morning we often wonder what is going on behind that inscrutable face. Drape intends to be a "fizzissist" and is taking several very strenuous courses to that end under Billie Ham.

Drew, Pierce Allen, B Θ II,
Oakland High School, Oakland, Cal.
Class Calendar Committee (2).

Orono
Biology

Pierce cuts class meetings as Professor Segall cuts chapel services, by the wholesale. He is a past master in the art of picking out the graft courses in the institution, which are called in the curriculum cultural subjects.

Durgin, Albert Guy, Σ X,

As will doubtless be remembered, Guy's picture in conjunction with that of a certain notorious fusser, appeared in last year's Prism. Guy, himself, thinks it was a misprint and begs to present the accompanying proof-read edition.

Ellis, Harold Mutton, Φ H K,
Hingham High School.
Sergeant (2); First Lieutenant (3); Class Nominating Committee (3); Secretary Press Club (2), (3); Secretary and Treasurer Debating Club (2), (3); PRISM (3); Blue Book (2); Editor-in-Chief Blue Book (3); Class Poet (3).

Hingham, Mass.
Classical

"A demure, studious boy." But he is the editor of the Blue Book and as such he has the sincere sympathies of the PRISM Board. This, judging by experience, is much more than he is entitled to expect from any one.

Emery, Francis Philip, "Fish," Σ A E, Eastport
Washington Academy. Mechanical Engineering
Class Basketball (1), (2); Class Football (2); Class Baseball (1); Aid Sophomore Hop; Class Nominating Committee (3); Assistant Manager Basketball (3); Class Executive Committee (3); Aid Sophomore Hop; Executive Committee Mechanical and Electrical Society (3); Junior Week Committee (3); Aid Junior Promenade.

The mysteries of the Orono Telephone Exchange were for a long time a great fascination to Fish, and after acquiring some skill as night operator it was extremely difficult for him to decide whether he should spend his vacations as apprentice to the "Central" or at East Machias where they say there are other attractions.

Estabrooke, Elizabeth Read, "Bess," Orono
Orono and Bangor High Schools. Classical

As a Freshman Bessie had Bowdoin sympathies, but we are happy to say that she has recovered. Of late she has taken up voice cultivation and that she has attained a success beyond her wildest dreams, all may testify who heard her render in chapel that touching and pathetic ballad, "There Is a Green Hill Far Away," (presumably Montana.)

Farnsworth, James Pitt, "Jimmy," Θ E, Millbridge
Millbridge High School. Electrical Engineering
Secretary and Treasurer Mechanical and Electrical Society (3).

Jimmie is a man of keen discernment and fine tastes, hence, it is not hard to see why he forsook '07, and after remaining out a year cast his lot with us. He is a great society man and is very popular with the opposite sex. (We are free to admit that we admire their perspicacity in that particular.)

Fellows, Raymond, "Squire," $\Phi \Gamma \Delta$, Bucksport

Glee Club (1), (2), (3); Reader for Musical Clubs (2), (3); Assistant Manager Musical Clubs (2); Manager Musical Clubs (3); Winner Sophomore Prize Declamations (2); Sophomore Nominating Committee (2); Reader University Orchestra (2), (3); Secretary Athletic Association (3); Class Prophet (3).

Squire is a virtuous lad in most respects, although he has a bad habit of taking frequent trips to "Jed Prouty Town on the Penobscot." Does he go to see his mother?

Fenn, Charles Henry, "Old Harry," ΣX , Portland
Portland High School. Civil Engineering

Harry's life at Maine has been one long, sweet dope, but we understand that down in his native wilds of Portland he is the star "lady-killer" of Sherman Street.

Files, Frederick Whitney, "Freddie," ΘE , Portland
Portland High School. Electrical Engineering

Glee Club (1), (2), (3); Corporal (1); Sergeant (2); Lieutenant (3); Class Nominating Committee (3).

Freddie's voice has brought many good things to him, among them the opportunity to hold forth of a Sunday from the choir of one of Bangor's leading churches. Someone has been unkind enough to suggest that his frequent visits to the metropolis are not prompted entirely by a desire to improve his musical ability. 'Tis false—Freddie is a confirmed woman hater.

Fisher, Ray Haynes, Pepperell, Mass.
Mt. Hermon School. Special
Entered Sophomore Year from Worcester Polytechnical Institute.

"By his discourse he should eat nothing but hay."

Fisher's mild contemplation of an '08 class scrap was once rudely interrupted by a ducking in a cess-pool, contemplation and all. He then consented to at least stand in the fray and let the crowd surge around his feet. He didn't come up here to endanger life and limb by getting into a class rush.

Fogler, Ben Baker, "Ben," Σ X, Skowhegan
Skowhegan High School. Mechanical Engineering
Entered Sophomore Year from George Washington University; Campus Board (2), (3); Aid Sophomore Hop;
Assistant Editor Campus (3); PRISM (3); Aid Junior Promenade.

Ben's troubles began on his very first day in Orono, when on stepping from the train he was asked if he were the President of the University. He thinks a walk down Pennsylvania Avenue much more interesting than counting ties on College Street, and the change from the elite of Washington's "Four Hundred" to the society of "Tough End" was a hard blow. However, the wilds of Maine are working wonders and they may make a man of him yet.

French, Cecil Sumner, "Frenchy," Φ K Σ, Kingfield
Deering High School. Electrical Engineering

Frenchy started out in life to be a lawyer but is too kind hearted for a career of that nature. So he left Kingfield, wherever that is, for Orono and has been busy getting an education and making friends ever since.

French, Frank Danforth, "Ami," K Σ, Jonesport
Washington Academy. Forestry
Class Baseball (1), (2); Band (1), (2), (3).

Ami was born down east among the fish-skinners, and when the tide got lost one day it carried Ami as far as Bangor. A few hours later he was on the campus, whittling a plug of Sickle tobacco.

Here is engraved the physog of one of the most honest and frankest fellows of '08. If a true, unprejudiced opinion is wanted, hunt up Jim. Jim is "right there with the feathers" with all responsibilities which are thrown upon him.

Hackett, Joseph James, "Joe," Δ M, Newport, R. I.
Hazard Normal School. Special

A man who very wisely shunned '09 and entered as a sophomore last year. Possessing a dignified personal appearance, he has often been taken for one of the faculty boys, but he is not nearly as bad as that.

Hanscom, Arthur Snow, "Father," Φ Γ Δ,
Leeds Junction, Me.

Edward Little High School. Civil Engineering
Class President (2); Class Football (2); Class Baseball
(1), (2); Chairman Sophomore Hop Committee.

Father is a natural born leader of men, for not only did he lead us, as Sophomores, to victory, but he furnished brains for all our deviltries. He is fat, bald-headed, and so tired by nature that it may well be said that "Everybody Works but Father."

Hardison, Grover Merrill, "Hardy," Ω Δ Υ, Caribou
Caribou High School. Civil Engineering

As the last potato train went through Orono from Aroostook in the fall of 1904, "Hardy" was seen to leap from the rear car, his personal effects tied up in a red handkerchief. Since then he has become noted for his big feet and big stories of the land of the Maine "murphy."

Harris, Bell Curry, Sherman Mills
Sherman High School. Classical
Class Secretary (2); Class Executive Committee (2);

Bell is one of our most popular young ladies. Bell does not believe in "throwing corn" at her numerous admirers, but time was, when she would merely refer them to the "cob."

Hill, William Andrew, "Capt.," $\Phi \Gamma \Delta$, Winterport
Winterport High School. Civil Engineering
Band (1), (2); Corporal (1).

"Capt. Bill" is a traveller of wide and varied experience. He knows Montana better than calculus; and the bounding billows of the mighty Atlantic seem no larger to him than the ripples of the little Ester Brook.

Hilliard, Stanley Tyng, "Stan," $\Phi \Gamma \Delta$, Oldtown
Oldtown High School. Mechanical Engineering
Sophomore Declamations (2); PRISM Board (3); Glee

Stan is not one of the Aborigines, although he is one of our representatives from near the Island. He has no peculiarities, but we think that he lays too much stress on the fact that he is a good rifle shot.

Hopkins, George Jesse, "Hop," $B \odot \Pi$, Bath
Morse High School. Mechanical Engineering
Class Track Team (1), (2); Class Relay Team (1), (2);
Class Nominating Committee (3).

Bath has sent her greatest and noblest in the person of George Jesse. Already has Hoppie hitched his wagon (or rather his horses) to a "star" and early in the winter secured the important position of office boy to Scissors. This position near the mighty together with George Jesse's natural ability will undoubtedly project him through mechanics with a positive acceleration.

Irish, Joshua Swett, "Swett," A Z, Gorham
North Yarmouth Academy. Agriculture
Corporal (1); First Sergeant (2); First Lieutenant (3).

Hey Josh! by gosh! when, as a freshman, you took that far-famed leap into the frog 'pond the morning after the scrap, you won instant recognition as a man of daring and class spirit.

Jacobs, Joseph, "Joe," Φ H K, W. Boylston, Mass.
West Boylston High School. Electrical Engineering
Corporal (1); First Sergeant (2); Captain (3); Class
Nominating Committee (3); Student Council (3); President
Mechanical and Electrical Society (3); Class Track Team
(2); Chairman Junior Promenade Committee (3).

A gentleman who looks like a gentleman and acts like a gentleman even when he isn't dressed like a gentleman. Joe viewed with stern and disapproving eyes the Old Guard racket of last spring, and he thinks the instigators of such a treasonable and anarchistic lark should be summarily court-martialed and shot.

Johnson, Charles Arthur, "Johnny,"
Berlin Mills, N. H.
Berlin High School. Civil Engineering

Of late Johnnie's love troubles have seemed to monopolize his attention to the exclusion of all class and college affairs, though in the early days he was a loyal scrapper for '08. He lost his heart early in the game in a down town love affair, but he seems to worry along very well without that portion of his anatomy.

Kendrigan, John Thompson, "Bishop," K Σ,

Johnny's home town is so far out of the world that he has not been able to get back to earth since he first saw it. His college career has put a golden frame around that immortal utterance of Newton Newkirk, "A lungfull of hot air turneth away wrath."

Knight, George Raymond, Δ M., North Waterford
Gould's Academy. Electrical Engineering

Raymond has become famous for the great game which he put up the day he played on Arad's "Locker Room" team at Old Town. Notwithstanding this he has carried his honors gracefully, without becoming in the least "swelled-headed." He intends to be a chiropodist as soon as he can screw up his courage far enough to take some lessons.

Lancaster, Howard Augustus, "Lanky," Oldtown
Oldtown High School, Maine Central Institute.

Civil Engineering
Class Basketball (1), (2).

Why does Lanky resemble a phosphorus match? Because he is long and slender and has a red head. Nature evidently intended Lanky to be a bright and shining light for some misguided community, but Fate made him a civil engineer. The fact that he lives in Old Town excuses his otherwise suspicious visits to that "metropolis."

Lanpher, Stacy Clifford, "Fat," $\Omega \Delta Y$, Sebec
Foxcroft Academy. Classical
PRISM (3); Class Nominating Committee (3).

Fat's energy is inversely proportional to his size. He is one of the German sharks and in recitations always adheres firmly to his belief in the old saying, "He who rides may read;" at least that's the way he says it goes in German.

Libby, Paul, $\Phi H K$, Somersworth, N. H.
Somersworth High School. Civil Engineering

Paul is not as large as he might be but he is all there, as a certain '07 man can testify, who picked him out for an easy mark at the time of the banquet in Ellsworth.

Locke, Samuel Barry, "Gramp," ΣX , West Paris
Paris and Deering High Schools. Forestry
Corporal (1).

Sam is never happier than when, perched on the old cracker barrel, fish-pole in one hand and gun in the other, he reels off thrilling tales of the trail to a group of admiring listeners. If in one of these frequent spasms he were ever placed in series with a regulation gas meter—it would be all off with the meter.

Lord, Leslie Roland, "Pete," ΣX ,
Poquonock, Conn.

Hartford Public High School. Electrical Engineering
Campus Board (1), (2), (3); Class Nominating Committee (2), (3); Treasurer Deutscher Verein (3); University Chapel Organist (2), (3); Editor-in-Chief PRISM (3).

Between grinding at studies, grinding the chapel organ, and grinding some poor mortal in the PRISM, Pete's time is pretty well hashed up, but he generally takes time to eat his meals.

McNamara, William Stephen, "Mac," ΔM ,
Millville, Mass.

Millville High School. Civil Engineering
Class Calendar Committee (2); PRISM Artist; Aid Sophomore Hop; Aid Junior Promenade.

Mac was shipped to Orono by freight. "Care of the President of the Y. M. C. A., C. O. D." (They say the company has never been able to collect.) Since then he has been known everywhere as "the model student," whose books are his only companions, and occasional Sunday afternoon walks his only diversion. His chief worry of late has been as to how he is going to get his shirt on over his wings.

Matheas, Fred Walter, "Dick,"
Bangor

Bangor High School. Civil Engineering
Captain Class Football (1); Varsity Basketball (1), (2); Class Basketball (1); (2); Class Track Team (1), (2); Varsity Football (2), (3); Aid Junior Promenade.

Dick is a "hale fellow well met" and he is a tough customer in a scrap, as many of us can testify who ran up against him when he was a sophomore in '07. His work in Varsity football last fall needs no mention by the PRISM.

McKenney, Blake, "Block,"

Bangor High School.

Bangor

Block is right in his element when he is "masticating the muslin" and cracking jokes. He is very expert at the former occupation.

Merrill, Anne Margaret, $\Pi B \Phi$,

Edward Little High School.

Auburn

Classical

Entered Junior Year from George Washington University.

Margaret has been with us such a short time that we feel we cannot do her justice. We might tell, however, of a college honor to which she has already attained at Maine—President of the Y. W. C. A. for Co-eds

Meserve, Claude Pitman, "Pit," $\Sigma A E$,

North Bridgton

Bridgton Academy.

Mechanical Engineering

Class Track Team (1); Captain Class Track Team (2); Varsity Track Team (1), (2); Worcester Team (2); Class Marshall (3).

The only time that Pit was ever really worried was when the Bowdoin fellows claimed they had a high-jumper. He never allows anything to interfere with the perusal of his letters during chapel except a prelim. in Mechanics following.

Milliken, Earle Linwood, "Skim," A T Ω,

Springfield Technical High School.

Electrical Engineering
Entered Sophomore Year from Springfield Technical High School.

Campus (2), (3); Assistant Editor Campus (3); PRISM (3); Class Nominating Committee (3); Manager Hockey Club (3); Junior Week Committee (3).

Skim is interested in everything and in some cases the interest assumes abnormal proportions. Still, he's a worker and he's no shirk, and we venture the prediction that when he takes three or four reefs in his hat band and gets his hair cut he will make his mark, and it won't be an easy mark.

Miner, Henry LeRoy, A T Ω, "Henny," Haverhill
Haverhill High School.

Chemical
Class Track Team (2), (3); Manager Class Baseball (1), (2); Captain Class Football (1), (2); 'Varsity Track Team (1), (2); 'Varsity Football (2), (3); Assistant Manager Baseball (2); Manager Baseball (3); Band (1); Assistant Manager Band (2); Sophomore Prize Declamations; Floor Director Sophomore Hop; Secretary Chemical Club (3); Aid Junior Promenade.

Henry came down from the little Socialist burg known as Haverhill, possessed with the idea that he could run things. Like every dog he had his day. His upward march to success was suddenly halted one night, when he attempted to remove an amorous Freshman from his lady love. However, he has now recovered from the torrent of withering invectives heaped upon him by the said lady.

Mitchell, Robie Lawton, "Ikey," Φ Γ Δ,
West Newfield

Parsonsfield Seminary.
Classical
Campus (2), (3); Vice President Debating Club (2); Manager Tennis Team (2); Tennis Team (2); Class Nominating Committee (3); Captain Tennis Team (3).

Ikey is a "long" tennis player. He talks, hears, thinks, sees, smells, feels and tastes love games. He keeps all his belongings, except his bed, on the court. Ikey was a hero in the "Flag Scrap" and wanted to know if that was a class honor. We told him it was an honor to live in the same town with '08 that day.

Mitchell, Sanford Stevens,
Cherryfield Academy.
Class Football (2).

Cherryfield
Special

Consider S. S. Mitchell of Cherryfield, how he toils not, neither doth he plug; but the glitter of his blue and khaki uniforms is enough to drive all the pretty girls between the Post Office and the Maine Central R. R. station to drink.

Morrison, James Joseph, "Jim," Pembroke High School.

Pembroke
Electrical Engineering

Jim's a good fellow, all right. Besides that, he's taking the man's course, and he picked out the right class after a try or two, so he doesn't deserve to be roasted.

Morton, Fred Constine, "Levi," Gorham High School.

South Windham
Electrical Engineering
Class Football (2); Class Basketball (2); Class Treasurer (3); Class Nominating Committee (3); Junior Promenade Committee (3); Class Executive Committee (3).

Levi is a shy, unobtrusive little boy. His apprenticeship in Sampson Bros.' emporium has given him a good working knowledge of how to handle the "almighty dollar," and this he has put to good use in engineering the class so far through a hard Junior year.

Perkins, Howard Lewis, "Piggy,"

Augusta

Cony High School.

Electrical Engineering

Class Football (2).

Piggy is known as the man with the "co-ed" voice; his voice is seldom heard except in the class-room, where it goes forth with a clear ring of hard plugging, carrying with it conviction and ninety per cent.

Potter, Robert Eaton, "Bob," Σ X,

Bath

Bath High School.

Civil Engineering

Class Track Team (1), (2); 'Varsity Track Team (2).

Why is Bob like a kerosene lamp? Because he occasionally smokes, he is not especially bright, he is often turned down and he frequently goes out at night. Bob violently resents any intimation that he is related to Bowdoin's famous lobbyist.

Rich, Harry Herbert, K Σ,

Bangor

Bangor High School.

Electrical Engineering

Chairman Class Executive Committee (1); Corporal (1); First Sergeant (2); Sophomore Hop Committee; Captain (3); Aid Junior Promenade.

The only thing that kept Harry from being arrested in connection with the "64" scrape was that look of sublime innocence with which nature endowed him. Bridge is his favorite game; he has no favorite drink; and his only occupation is sleeping.

Richardson, Roy Henry, "Richie," A Z,
Nowell, Mass.
Nowell High School. Agriculture

Richie thought it would be shocking if he were a conductor more than three years at a time, so he came back to finish up that course in agriculture with '08. He is known as a pretty good sort of fellow, but even now when he goes to Oldtown he sometimes forgets himself and collects the fares when the conductor's back is turned.

Robinson, Philip Increase, "P. I.," Φ K Σ, Waterville
Waterville High School. Electrical Engineering
Manager Class Track Team (2); Aid Sophomore Hop;
Class Secretary (3); Assistant Business Manager PRISM (3);
Junior Promenade Committee (3); Manager Blue Book (3);
Class Executive Committee (3).

"P. I." is a firm believer in the value of a "co-education" and is fully determined to get one. He also claims that Waterville is the only town worth living in, and he ought to know. Phil is always afflicted with "that tired feeling" when plugging time comes 'round, but he is Johnny-on-the-Spot when a rough house is on.

Sargent, Leslie Wheeler, "Flopper," B Θ II,
South Brewer
Brewer High School. Mechanical Engineering
Class Track Team (1); Varsity Track Team (1); Class
Treasurer (2); Sergeant (2); Class Nominating Committee
(2); Class Executive Committee (2); Aid Sophomore Hop;
Captain (3); Aid Junior Promenade.

Among the memories of our Sophomore class meetings which will remain after all else is forgotten, are the pathetic appeals which Flopper used to make regularly for collateral with which to run the department of finance. However, as he resisted the temptation for a whole year to clear out with the class bank book and settle down to private life in the wilds of Brewer, we will forbear to roast him further.

Sawyer, William Robert, "Bill," K Σ, Milbridge

(1); President Hebron Club (3); Class Relay (1), (2).

Would we roast Bill? Not on your life. He is our Ar exhibit. Captured in the South Sea Islands, running on all fours. Eats 'em alive, gentlemen, this wild and roaring specimen from the primeval jungle. Whenever Bill starts to roar the Devil locks his doors and windows and says his prayers.

Skofield, Perley Fiske, Houlton
New Rochelle High School, N. Y. Agriculture

Class Football (2); Class Track Team (1); Sophomore
Declamations; Assistant Chief Musician Cadets (2); Band
(1), (2), (3).

Skofield is a worker, and is deeply enthusiastic over the mysteries and problems of agriculture. He is at present engaged in perfecting a scheme whereby he can raise potatoes successfully in dry weather by planting onions among them. The onions will make the eyes of the potatoes water and thus furnish moisture enough to weather the drought.

Smith, George Lewis, "Lew," Σ X, Long Cove
Tenants Harbor High School. Mechanical Engineering

Sophomore Hop Committee; Executive Committee Athletic Association (2); Sub-committee Baseball (2); Secretary Interscholastic Baseball Arbitration Board (2); Class Presenter (3).

Smithy's growth was stunted and his noisemaking and sulphurous adjective propensities were suddenly increased last year when he assumed the cares and anxieties of the secretaryship of the Interscholastic Baseball Arbitration Board. He is blessed with a "charming personality" and a sympathetic tenor voice, which he utilizes every morning to the tune of "I Don't Care What Scissors Says, I Can't Do That Sum."

Smith, Herman Brackett, "Smithy," $\Phi K \Sigma$, Saco

When Big Smith blew into Orono it looked as if a symphony orchestra had struck town. He can play anything from a harmonica to a bass tuba. Smithy is fully cognizant of the fact that he is a big fellow and passed a good strength test.

Smith, Oscar Franklin, "Smick," $A T \Omega$, Calais

Calais High School.

Sophomore Prize Declamations; Secretary Junior Civil Society (3).

The first year of Smick's sojourn with us was a happy one. He often now looks over to the castle across the river and regretfully thinks what happiness might have been his. Oscar reversed the normal order of things, and changed from Aggie to one of the men's courses. His dabbings in "Frenzied Finance" during the past two years have resulted in changing an otherwise sunny nature to that of a pessimist.

Smith, Raymond Judson, "Jud," $\Phi \Gamma \Delta$, Skowhegan

Steward, Robert Kent, "Bob," $\Phi \Gamma \Delta$, Skowhegan
Skowhegan High School. Civil Engineering
Manager Class Basketball Team (1), (2); President
Junior Civil Society (3); Aid Sophomore Hop; Floor Manager Junior Promenade (3).

Bob is a plugger. He is the only one, however, who knows it. He is a very affectionate brother, but when "Friday" (K) night comes 'round, we are sorry to say that sisters are deserted with shameless alacrity.

Stuart, George Albert, "Mike," $A T \Omega$, Calais
Calais High School, Agriculture
Class Basketball (1), (2); Captain Class Basketball (2);
'Varsity Basketball (1), (2); Captain 'Varsity Basketball (3);
Class Track Team (2).

Mike believes that next to basketball, agriculture is the best form of recreation. When he and his running mate get that poultry farm started we know that Mike will be right in his element, especially when designing "hen-coops." He has had ample opportunity to investigate such structures from cellar to roof.

Sturtevant, Merle Alton, "Bush," $\Sigma A E$, Hebron
Hebron Academy. Scientific
Class Baseball (1), (2); Assistant Manager Track Team
(2); Manager Track Team (3).

Bush hails from Hebron and joins in with the rest of that class of "air-jammers." He is now busy trying to put the physics department ahead of Hebron.

Thomas, Searle Fowler, "Dinah," $\Phi K \Sigma$, Lincoln
Lee Normal Academy. Electrical Engineering
Class Track Manager (3); Aid Junior Promenade.

Dinah rolled from the trucks of a passing freight train in September, 1904, and liking the looks of Orono, decided to stay. "Oo Thomas' son" is the walking delegate of Lee Normal Academy and the leading exponent of the Sleeper's union. He is the man who "coughed up" for sixty-eight cents worth of tender condolences on the result of the Bowdoin-Maine game last fall.

Todd, Arthur Lee, "Toddles," Georgetown
Bath High School. Special
Sergeant (2); Lieutenant (3).

Todd's benignant expression of divine simplicity would easily deceive a green goods agent, but the said agent would have rather harder work deceiving Todd. When he gets his uniform on and goes fussing, (which by the way is a none too seldom operation for Todd) he is perfectly "too lovely for anything."

Trask, Warren Dudley, "Ditto," $K \Sigma$, Augusta
Cony High School. Civil Engineering
Class Nominating Committee (2), (3); Vice President
Junior Civil Society (3); Assistant Manager Campus (3); Business Manager PRISM.

Upon Ditto rests many a weary task, concerning the class-room, student activities, and love affairs. Ditto can pine away better than anyone else we ever saw. His motto is, "When in doubt, advertise in the PRISM."

Turner, Richard Clinton, A Z, Portland
Portland High School, Fryeburg Academy. Agriculture
Entered Junior Year from Amherst College, $\Phi \Delta \Theta$;
Glee Club (3); Banjo Club (3); Mandolin Club (3); Quarter-master Sergeant (3).

Another one of the fellows who know a good college when they see it. Coming from the sunny clime of Massachusetts, he brought some of the "hot air" of southern latitudes with him, but they say his supply is not inexhaustible.

Vickery, Earle Nelson, "Vic," ΣX , Pittsfield
Maine Central Institute. Electrical Engineering
Class Football (2); Sophomore Prize Declamations;
Varsity Football (3); Class Executive Committee (3).

Is a square, well-developed fellow, and stands well in his studies although not a greasy grind. Vic was a charter member of the original W. C. T. U. Ruff Haus Gangue for the first three weeks of his college career.

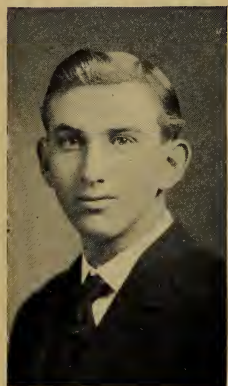

Wakefield, Sylvia Serena, "Sliv," Saco
Thornton Academy. Classical
Entered Sophomore Year from Bates College; Secretary
Deutscher Verein (3).

Sylvia is our co-ed exponent of the strenuous life and she believes thoroughly in the good old Irish verdict that nowadays "you can't let the grass grow under your feet if you want to keep your head above water." She has helped out the grinds and roasts so much that it would be mean to roast her, though it would be no difficult task to do so.

Weston, Clarence McLellan, $\Phi K \Sigma$, Madison
 Madison High School. Civil Engineering
 Kidder Scholarship (3); Secretary and Treasurer Civil Society (3).

Clarence is a rather quiet chap, so we don't know much about him. He stands well in his studies, but is not ostentatious about it and is always ready to extend a helping hand to us of lesser plugging inclinations.

Wilbur, Walter Edmund, Pembroke
 Pembroke High School. Electrical Engineering

Wilbur comes from Pembroke, wherever that is, but he comes, and stays, and goes so quietly that no one has ever been able to find out much about him.

Wood, Louis Carl, "Tub," ΣX , Berlin, N. H.
 Berlin High School. Civil Engineering
 Entered Junior Year from Dartmouth College.

Hailing from the hills of Hanover, Tub is quite infatuated with life in the Maine woods. Last fall he distinguished himself by going sixty miles into the wilderness with four patent rifles and a shot gun, and coming back loaded down with game in the form of a good working knowledge of draw poker which he bought at a fancy price from Hank. It requires more than "hunter's luck" to baffle Tub's good humour.

Wildes, Gordon Lunt, "Stub," K Σ, Skowhegan
Skowhegan High School. Special
Class President (2); Class Baseball (1); Class Basketball
(1); Assistant Manager Blue Book (2); Lieutenant (3);
Executive Committee Athletic Association (3).

Would anyone recognize Stub after these few years at college?
We think not. When he came he was "a sport," so they say. Now he is in love, and also a lieutenant in the cadet battalion. Don't you care, Stubby, you are "the man who surprised us all."

COLLEGE OF LAW

Blossom, Charles Albert Gooding, "Bud," B @ II,
Lex Club, New Bedford, Mass.

New Bedford High School.

Massachusetts Club; 'Varsity Football (1), (2); 'Varsity
Baseball (1), (2); Law School Basketball (1), (2); Assembly.

Bud is the latest importation from the Whaling City, the star athlete of the class and all-round right good fellow. High school studies have occupied much of his time for the past year. Although a diligent student in all branches, his favorite course is apparently astronomy in a class of two.

Burgess, Frank Beaumont, "Wizard," A E P, Sangerville

Higgins Classical Institute.

Assembly; Class Secretary (1); Law School Baseball (1);
Class Vice President (2).

The Wizard is the only man in the class holding a doctor's degree. He has recently received the degree D. M. P. S. H. B. (Doctor of Mental Psychic Suggestive Hoodoo Buncoism,) from Bugabocboo University, India. As a conjurer and slight-of-hand artist he has no equal in the country; his favorite occupation is collecting double fares from the passengers on the electrics, and then ringing in about one out of every four. It is impossible to prove any charges against him, as he always hypnotizes every one with whom he comes into contact. Involuntarily we breathe a prayer for his future clients.

Davidson, Edward Burleigh, "Dave," A T Ω , Σ B II,
York Village

York High School; University of Maine.

Assembly; Law School Baseball (1); Law School Basketball (1), (2).

Dave is our nice little Y. M. C. A. Sunday School boy. We confidently expect that in a few short years we shall find him expounding the Gospel to the gaping crowds of Hodgdon street and Pickering Square; even now certain names and expressions from the Holy Writ are the constant words of his mouth. He even takes his arguments from the Bible in his discussion of the different propositions of law; (this once lead the Dean to remind him that he was not in a Sunday School class.) He has a very poetic temperament as is shown by his great love for Nature, especially for Babbling Brooks.

Driscoll, George Alexander, "Connie," Lex Club,
Springfield, Mass.

Springfield High School; Villa Nova College.

Assembly; Class President (1).

Connie is of an extremely retiring disposition; in fact his most notable characteristic is his extreme modesty. It is with a kindly paternal spirit that the PRISM advises him to cultivate more self-esteem, and to be a bit more forward in asserting himself and his ideas. Modesty is a great virtue, but there is such a thing as being too virtuous for this world. Now speak right up, Connie, when the Profs make statements which you know are not so; for of course it must be admitted by all that you know far more law than they ever dreamed of.

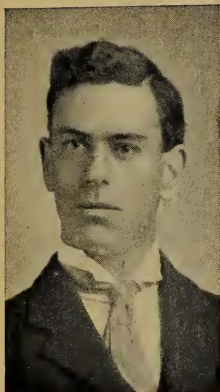

Gardner, Silas Henry, "Si," B Θ II, Lex Club,
Brockton, Mass.

Brockton High School; University of Maine.

Assembly; Massachusetts Club; Class Executive Committee (2).

"Massachusetts Statutes" are Si's hobby. Not a recitation passes without Si asking from five to twenty times,—"Is there a Massachusetts statute on that point?" which maketh Simp wax exceeding wroth. Now, don't do it, Si; its a great joke on Simp, and we all like to see him get mad and fly to pieces; but we think you should have some mercy and pity on the poor man, and we fear that he may commit assault and battery upon you in the class some fine day; so think how sorry you would be to be the means of sending him up for sixty days!

Huntley, Ernest Devenport, "Squire," Harrington
Harrington High School.
Assembly; Class Executive Committee (2).

This young critter is not so green as we thought. Apparently he is the most innocent, unsophisticated mortal upon this green earth, but don't be deceived; for while he is apparently swallowing all your big yarns as gospel truth, he is thinking what a cussed liar you are, and getting ready to mimic you and make all manner of sport of you when he gets with his cronies. He, himself, happens to be a most accomplished disciple of Ananias, the lawyers' patron saint.

Leary, Thomas Edward, "Tom," B. S., Σ X, Σ B Π,
East Hampden

Hampden Academy; University of Maine.
B. S., Maine, 1905; Class Treasurer (1); Class Secretary and Treasurer (2).

In Tom we behold the typical would-be politician. For three successive terms he has held the office of Hog-reeve of the town of Hampden. At the caucus last summer Tom received one vote for nomination to the State legislature; Query:—Who cast it? Ask Tom, for only he and the Almighty know, and they will never tell. The old Pine Tree State is to be congratulated on its narrow escape; for had Tom been sent to Augusta, he would never have rested until he had set up an absolute monarchy with himself at the head, and Mr. B. Brooks, Esq., as his prime minister.

Maxwell, James Davidson, "Jamie," Z Ψ, A E P,
Bangor

Bangor High School; Tufts College.
Tufts 1905. Assembly; 'Varsity Orchestra (1).

Common Law Pleading does not seem to agree with Jamie; for directly after the exam. last spring, he announced his determination to practice in New York, where in place of complex common law practice, they use a simplified code with 97,482 sections; we are inclined to agree with him that it would be far easier to learn by heart all these sections of the New York code, than to learn anything about Pleading from the course that was served up to our class.

Nolan, Harry McDonald, "Clip," Lex Club,
Haverhill, Mass.

Haverhill High School.

We had a corking good grind on Clip; but he has used the PRISM so mighty white, that we have concluded it would be a breach of friendship to give him away, especially since he has promised to set up the treat if we would keep it out of print. Clip believes in the Intensive rather than in the Extensive method of study; and so, for about a week before exams. you can find no one who does more cramming than he; and we will add that he invariably comes out with flying colors. It is a great mystery how he was able to squeeze through Pleading by cramming two days, when the great majority of us went down in an inglorious flunk after a hard term's work.

Rideout, Morton Howard, "Mort.," Σ B II, Bangor
Bangor High School.

Class Executive Committee (1); Class President (2).

In this tall, lean, lank individual, we have a type of the hustling young American. By profession, Mort is a contractor and builder and electrical engineer; his purpose in studying law was a mystery, but we will tell you the secret; Mort does not intend to practice, oh, no! His intention is to find out how far he can go in making bunco contracts and still keep out of the clutches of the law.

Skillin, Carroll Brown, "Prof.," A E P,

Yarmouth Academy.

Assembly Executive Committee (1); Law Basketball (1),

A house divided against itself cannot stand, neither can a man succeed if a part of his mind is up in Kingman and the other part (much the smaller) at the Law School. Speaking of graft we might say that John D. Rockefeller in his palmiest days could not be compared with Prof. Prof's favorite occupation is organizing monopolies with himself as IT for the control of the various necessities of the students; we venture to predict that his first act after admission to the Bar will be to get a monopoly on air, (cold air, we mean, for he already has a monopoly of all the hot air around the Law School.)

Seavey, Ernest Linwood, "Boston," Σ B Π ,
 Boston, Mass.
 Boston English High School; Boston University.
 Assembly Executive Committee (2).

"Boston" has come to the wise conclusion that MAINE beats them all when it is a question of preparation for the legal profession. He tried a year at Boston Law School but found that it was far from satisfactory. We might have told him so before he went there, had he but asked our advice upon the matter. We greatly fear that he is not long for this world, he is such a delicate, frail, little fellow; but perhaps with gentle care and tender treatment we may be able to keep him with us until we graduate from this school.

Waldron, William Linscott, "Judge," A. B., A. M.,
 Φ Δ Θ , N K, Σ B Π , Waterville
 Waterville High School; Colby College; Indiana Law School.
 A. B., Colby, 1899; A. M., Maine, 1906.
 Assembly Secretary (1); President (2); Class Vice President (1); PRISM Board (2); Speaker Maine Night (2).

Appearances are deceitful, but never more so than in the case of Judge; he is not a minister though sometimes taken for one. He is now candidate for the defunct Sturgis commission, as he certainly believes in putting down all kinds of intoxicants that he can get hold of. He says the reason he did not stay at Indiana was because the climate did not agree with him,—as a matter of fact we know that it did get rather hot for him, so hot, in truth, that he had to skiddoo on something less than 24 hours' notice from the faculty.

Godfrey, Edward Rawson, "Baby," B. A., Δ K E, Σ B Π , Bangor
 Bangor High School; Bowdoin College.
 B. A., Bowdoin, 1899.
 Class Executive Committee (2).

Who is this lit-tle boy? He is the small-est boy in the Jun-ior class. Is he not a-fraid to play with the oth-er big-ger boys? Oh, no! he knows they would not hurt him for any-thing. Does he play foot-ball or bas-ket ball? No, in-deed, he is not strong e-nough for such stren-u-ous sport; he likes to play pitch-ing cop-pers with his li-a-bil-i-ty lim-i-ted to two cents; but his fa-vo-rite past-time is prat-tling a-bout his corp-o-ration in Lou-i-si-a-na, and wor-ship-ing Ted-dy Roose-velt.

Greeley, Harry Burton, "Greel,"

Hampden

Hampden Academy.

Class Executive Committee (1).

Greel is famous principally for his strenuous administration as president of the MAINE lodge of the International Anti-cigarette League; he works on the principal "If I smoke 'em, there will be so many less for some one else to smoke;" this has caused some few people to put him down as a cigarette fiend, but he is not; he is simply eager to sacrifice himself to the noble cause to which he has devoted himself.

Hamilton, William Parker, "Ham," B. A.,

Caribou

Caribou High School; Bates College; Michigan Law School.

B. A., Bates, 1895; Assembly.

Ham is a man of very fine judgment, as is shown by the fact that after many and varied experiences as a pedagogue, and as a student in some of the Western law schools, he concluded that after all, there was no place quite like old MAINE, so we are fortunate in having him with us, and being able to sit at his feet and learn the ways of wisdom.

Ridlon, Horace Denver, "Hod," A E P,

Stetson

Stetson Academy.

Assembly Treasurer (1), (2).

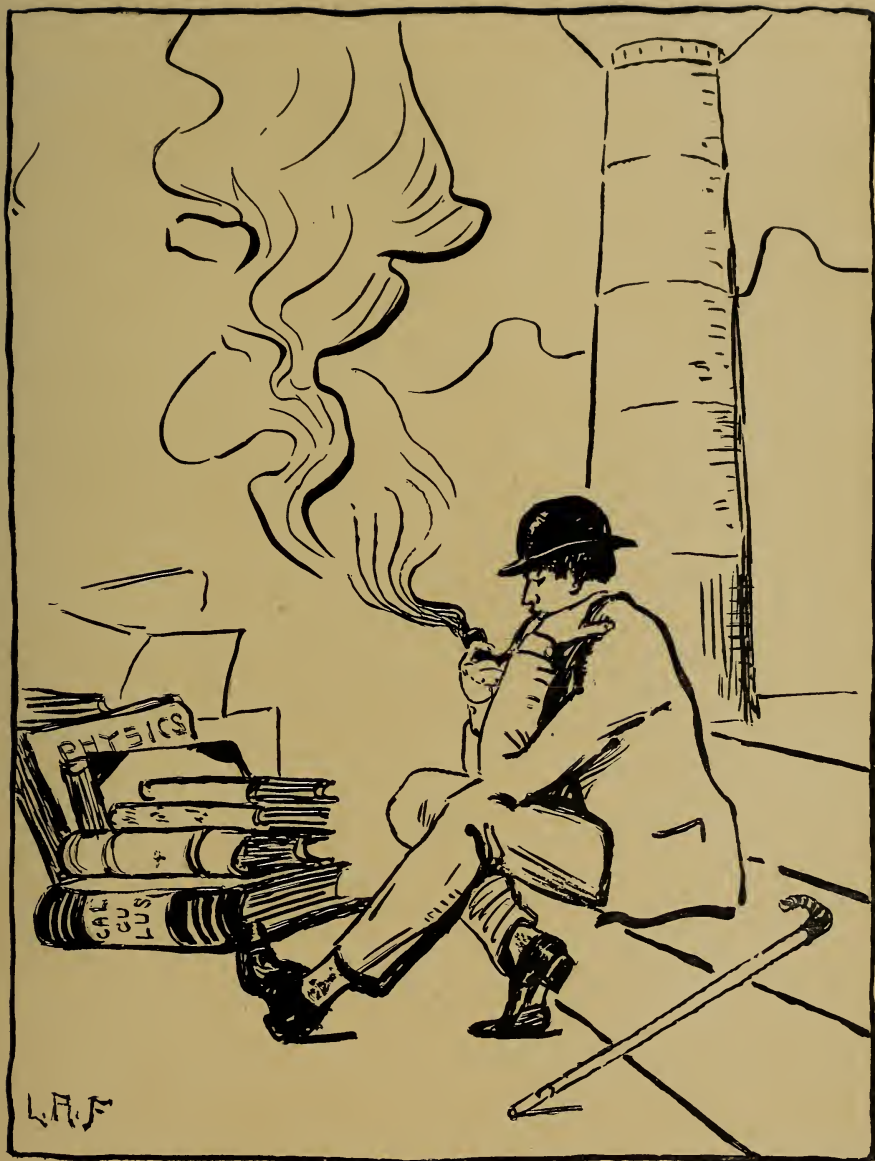

This man is not a cruel ogre who eats people alive; he is really tender-hearted and kind; his habitual expression is but the result of many years' experience as a teacher and superintendent of schools. We do not wonder that children hold him in the greatest awe, for even Simp in his wildest ravings never dared call down Hod, as he has called down about every one else in the class.

SOPHOMORE HISTORY

[With due apologies to Longfellow, by A. Mainefellow.]

Twenty moons ago there gathered
In the valley of Orono
On the banks of the Stillwater,
A noble tribe, known then as Freshmen
Aughty-Nine in council meetings.
Mighty were they in their own minds,
Brave and terrible in battle.
Then it was they chose their war-chief,
Higgins, greatest of the warriors,
Brave was he and full of courage,
Far ahead of all the tribes-men
In the ways and means of warfare
'Gainst the brave and mighty Soph'mores.
Thus it is that I shall tell you
How this tribe came to the council
Met defeat — and sometimes triumphed
O'er their brave and strong opponents.
From the north and east they gathered,
From the south and from the westward,
Came this mighty band of warriors

Decked out brightly in green war-paint.
At their coming to the council
Peace was ended on the Campus
And there 'rose the awful Death-Song
And the tumult grew discordant.
Then the Sophomores ducked and washed them
For their greeny, grassy freshness.
Stronger then rose up their spirit
Toward their elders and their betters
And their wrath was hot within them
Hot to fight and gain a vict'ry.
Thus they grew in strength and wisdom
Gained in confidence and cunning
'Til at last the time was nearing
For a mighty stroke of valour.

Springtime came upon the valley
And the tribe grew very restless
Anxious for some great excitement
Wishing for a mighty Smoke-Talk
Safe from every interference
Free from all pursuit and danger.
Long and secret was their planning
And when everything was ready
There was held a mighty Smoke-Talk
In the most approved method,
In a place free from all dangers,
Safe from all their wily foemen.
Many warriors were assembled,
— some were absent, — lost, — detained,
But they had achieved a triumph
Greater than the tribes before them
One that stood out clear in history
Like a land-mark in the desert.

Summer spreads o'er all the valley
And the time is fast approaching
When the warriors meet together
For the last and final conflict.
Long and loud the war-cries sounded

And the foes, into the river
Hand in hand, together entered
Where they struggled without ceasing
Now above, now 'neath the water
Dark and dirty in the struggle.
Then they rose from out the water
Smoked the pipe of peace together
Buried deep the massive paddle
Put aside their hate, — forever.

Thrice the moon rose o'er the valley
Ere again the tribe assembled
For a purpose far more pressing
Than they heretofore had met with.
For a new tribe took the Campus
From the bold and wily Aught-Nine.
Quickly then they chose a war-chief
Chose a man of valour, Jo-sef,
And he called the tribe together
Told them of the raids and freshness
Of these arrogant usurpers.
Many were their fights together
Great and mighty were the vict'ries
And their foes were swept before them
By the broad and springy paddle,
Ush-Wush, famed as pain-producing.
Well have they performed their duties
As the bold and mighty Soph'mores
Done it well beyond undoing
Worked with care and greatest patience
And the valley lies in quiet
Free from all discordant noises
While the terror of the Freshmen
Nag-Gan-Nosh, the greatest river,
Mighty current, great Stillwater,
Sparkles ever in the sunlight
As it flows on toward the ocean.

SCRAPS FROM A FRESHMAN'S DIARY

Sept. 19, Wed. I got into Orino this morning. The Governor came to the train with me, gave me a pile of money and said, "Now, son, you've got a chance to show what you're made of," and then he piked off. Gee! I guess I'm in for a good time now, all right.

Sept. 20, Thur. I went up on the campus today. I had to register and put down everything I wanted to study and all the teachers I was to have and where I boarded and what church I belonged to and — I wonder if they skipped anything. Seems as if they're pretty inquisitive. Besides that I had to shell out about half the cash Dad gave me. Guess I can't blow much if it's going at that rate. There was an awful gang of fellows there and they looked about like a cross between a cowboy and a dude. Some of them wore big corduroy pants and high boots and flannel shirts and slouch hats turned up in front, desperado style, and they only needed a six-shooter to complete the outfit.

Sept. 24, Mon. Gosh, but I was mad today! A fellow came up to me, and I hadn't done anything to him, either, and he knocked my new derby off and stepped on it. I would have sailed into him but he had a big crowd of fellows with him. I don't like these fellows who are always going around with a chip on their shoulder anyway.

Sept. 25, Tues. In chapel this morning the red-headed man on the platform said that all the Freshmen were to have a meeting at one o'clock, so as soon as we could eat our grub we all went up. We elected a fellow named Chase, president, and then we planned how we weren't going to do any night-shirt parading for the Sophs, (those are the fresh guys up here who think they own the whole place.) Tonight we had an awful scrap in the middle of the road and I had more fun than a little bit helping put a Soph under the hose spout of a house, but I got wet all right. We scrapped for a long time and then somebody hollered something about "d — d Juniors" and we stopped.

Oct. 9, Tues. The funniest thing happened today! The big fellow who knocked my dip off came up to me and asked if I couldn't come over to dinner with him, and he took me over to one of those big frat houses. There was a crowd of fellows in there all cracking jokes and smoking and singing funny songs and some that weren't funny. They were nice as pie to me. A fellow down in Bangor told me those societies up there at Orono were just like anarchists, and they drew lots and the fellow who drew the right number had to go out and kill somebody or blow up something, whether they wanted to or not. But I don't believe a word of it. Anyway they gave me a "bid." They're a pretty slick crowd, but I guess I'll wait and see what's what.

Oct. 15, Sat. Last night I was asleep when somebody grabbed my arm and hollered, "Turn out, Freshmen!" By jingoos, I was some scared. Right there was one of those pesky Sophs and he made me put on some old clothes and go down stairs with him. Then I had to run through a long line of them all armed with clubs and paddles. Gosh! Every step I took I got a peach of a crack on my rear deck. When I reached the end of the line somebody yelled, "This is a co-ed chaser," and I told him he was a liar. Then I had to run all the way back again. Holy smoke! It seemed as if my pants were on fire they felt so terribly hot. That's what the fellows call a razoo.

Nov. 2, Fri. Went down to Bangor last night to see a show called "Dare Devil Dorothy." It cost me forty cents altogether. I'll have to charge that up to "Miscellaneous." "Miscellaneous" covers a multitude of sins on my bank acct.

Jan. 16, Wed. Went to a dance the other night after a basketball game and met a lot of nice girls from Veazie and Old-Town, two cities near here. This writing a diary is too much work. I'm going to cut it out. There isn't much doing now anyway.

May 17, Friday. Well, here it is 'most the middle of May. Maine is certainly a great place. I hope the Governor will hitch me here for good next year. Next thing's the "frog-pond scrap."

BETA THETA PI

Beta Eta Chapter

The Beta Theta Pi Fraternity was founded at Miami University in 1839, the founders being John Reily Knox, Samuel Taylor Marshall, David Linton and James George Smith. At the present time there are sixty-nine active chapters, divided into thirteen districts, together with fifty-nine alumni associations. The fraternity publishes a periodical called the "Beta Theta Pi," which appears in eight numbers during the college year.

In 1879 Eta Chapter of Alpha Sigma Chi became Beta Eta Chapter of Beta Theta Pi. This chapter was the third to be established in District I, the other chapters of this district being located at Brown University, Boston University, Amherst College, Dartmouth College and Bowdoin College. The fraternity holds a national convention annually, the last one having been held in Denver, Colorado, in 1906. Earle W. Philbrook was the delegate sent by the local chapter. The chapter has occupied its present house for two years. Since receiving its charter two hundred and fifty-nine men have been initiated. The present active chapter numbers thirty.

KAPPA SIGMA

Psi Chapter

The Kappa Sigma Fraternity was founded at the University of Virginia in December, 1867, by George Wyatt Hollingsworth, George Miles Arnold, Edmund Law Rogers, Frank Courtney Nicodemus, Edward Stanley Toadvin, William Grigsby McCormick, John Edward Semmes and John Covert Boyd. The active chapters at present number seventy-five, and these are divided into fourteen districts with thirty-four alumni chapters. The fraternity periodical is the "Caduceus of Kappa Sigma," which is published bi-monthly.

The Psi Chapter of Kappa Sigma originated in the K. K. F. Club of the Maine State College. Psi was the first chapter to be established in District I. The other chapters in this district are located at Bowdoin College, New Hampshire State College, Dartmouth College, The University of Vermont, Massachusetts Agricultural College, Harvard University and Brown University. A national convention of the fraternity is held biennially. The last one was held at Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, in July, 1906, Everett H. Stetson being the delegate sent from the local chapter. Psi Chapter has occupied its present chapter house for eleven years. Since receiving its charter one hundred and sixty-four members have been initiated. The present active membership of the chapter is thirty-one.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Beta Upsilon Chapter

The Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity was founded at the Virginia Military Institute in 1865 by the Rev. Otis Allan Glazebrook, Captain Alfred Marshall, and Erskine Mayo Ross. There are now fifty-seven chapters in the fraternity, which is divided into eight provinces, and there are twenty-four alumni associations. The fraternity publishes a quarterly, the "Alpha Tau Omega Palm."

In 1891 the S. I. U. Club at Maine became the Beta Upsilon Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega. This was the third of seven chapters to be established in Province IV. The other chapters of this province are located at the University of Vermont, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Colby College, Brown University, Tufts College and Worcester Polytechnic Institute. A national Congress of the fraternity is held every two years, the last one having been held in December, 1906, at Birmingham, Alabama. Benjamin F. Williams was the delegate sent from the local chapter to this Congress. Beta Upsilon Chapter has occupied its present chapter house for eleven years. Since receiving its charter one hundred and seventy-six members have been initiated. The present active membership of the chapter is twenty-seven.

PHI KAPPA SIGMA

Alpha Delta Chapter

The Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity was founded at the University of Pennsylvania in 1850, the founders being Samuel Brown Mitchell, James Bayard Hodge, Alfred Victor DuPoint, Charles Hare Hutchinson, John Thorne Stone, Duane Williams and Andrew Adams Ripha. The fraternity has at present twenty-six active chapters and seven alumni chapters. The publication of the fraternity is the "Phi Kappa Sigma News Letter," issued quarterly.

In 1898 the local society of Omicron Upsilon Eta Pi at the University of Maine became the Alpha Delta Chapter of the Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity. Besides the chapter at Maine there is one other chapter of the fraternity situated in New England, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. At the last national congress of the fraternity held in December, 1906, at Washington, D. C., Porter L. Swift was the delegate from Alpha Delta. The local chapter has occupied its present chapter house for four years. Since the founding of the chapter one hundred and six members have been initiated. The present active membership of the chapter numbers thirty-three.

PHI GAMMA DELTA

Omega Mu Chapter

The Fraternity of Phi Gamma Delta was founded at Jefferson College in 1848, the founders being John T. McCarty, James Elliott, Ellis B. Gregg and Naamen Fletcher. At the present time the fraternity has fifty-four active chapters, divided into fourteen sections. There are also eleven graduate chapters. The fraternity publication is the "Phi Gamma Delta" which is issued monthly.

In 1899 the Orono Chapter of the Q. T. V. Fraternity became the Omega Mu Chapter of Phi Gamma Delta. Omega Mu was the last chapter to be established in Section I. The other chapters of this section are located at Brown University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dartmouth College, Amherst College and Worcester Polytechnic Institute. A national convention of the fraternity is held annually, the last one having been held at Old Point Comfort, Virginia, in July, 1906. Caleb E. S. Burns was the delegate of the local chapter. The present chapter house has been occupied by the chapter for seven years. Since receiving its charter one hundred and seventy-one members have been initiated into the fraternity. The active membership of the chapter at present is thirty-six.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Alpha Chapter

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity was founded at the University of Alabama in 1856 by Noble Leslie DeVotie, Nathan Elams Cockrell, Samuel Marion Dennis, Wade Foster, John Webb Kerr, John Barrett Rudolph, Abner Edwin Patton and Thomas Chappell Cook. There are now sixty-seven active chapters divided into nine provinces, and there are also thirty-six alumni associations. The fraternity has two quarterly publications, the "Record" and the "Phi Alpha."

In 1901 the local Iota Phi Society at the University of Maine was absorbed by the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity, thus forming the Maine Alpha Chapter. This chapter was the fifth of the fraternity to be established in Province Alpha. The other chapters of the province are located at Boston University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Harvard University and Worcester Polytechnic Institute. At the last biennial national convention, held in Atlanta, Georgia, December, 1906, Richard F. Talbot was the delegate sent by the chapter. Maine Alpha Chapter moved into the present chapter house three years ago. Eighty-nine men have been initiated into the chapter since its founding. There are thirty members in the present active chapter.

SIGMA CHI

Rho Rho Chapter

The Fraternity of Sigma Chi was founded at Miami University in 1855 by Thomas C. Bell, James P. Caldwell, Daniel W. Cooper, Benjamin P. Runkle, Frank H. Scobey, Isaac M. Jordan and William L. Lockwood. At the present time the fraternity is divided into nine provinces with a total of fifty-six chapters. There are twenty-seven alumni chapters and four alumni associations. The fraternity publishes a periodical called the "Sigma Chi Quarterly" which appears in September, November, February and May, and a private journal called the "Bulletin."

In 1902 the local society of Delta Rho of the University of Maine was absorbed by Sigma Chi, forming the Rho Rho Chapter of Sigma Chi. This was the sixth of seven chapters to be established in the Ninth Province. The other chapters of the province are at Hobart College, Dartmouth College, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Columbia University, Cornell University and Syracuse University. A national convention of the fraternity is held biennially. The last one was held in June, 1905, at Cincinnati, Ohio, Elmer J. Wilson being the delegate sent by the local chapter. The present chapter house has been occupied by the chapter for five years. Since receiving its charter ninety-four members have been initiated. The present active membership of the chapter is thirty-one.

SORORITY OF DELTA SIGMA

Gamma Chapter

The Sorority of Delta Sigma was established in 1901, by the union of two local societies, Alpha Delta Sigma of Tufts College and Delta Sigma of Brown University. In 1903 the local club of Phi Gamma at the University of Maine was absorbed by the Delta Sigma Sorority, forming the Gamma Chapter and these three chapters complete the roll at present. The last convention of the sorority was held at Providence, Rhode Island, in November, 1906, the delegates from the local chapter being Miss Mildred C. Mansfield and Miss Marion Balentine. Forty-eight have been initiated into the chapter since its founding. The active membership is now fourteen.

SENIOR HONORARY SOCIETY

The Fraternity of Phi Kappa Phi is an honorary society which was founded at the Maine State College in 1897. The founders were Dr. A. W. Harris, with several members of the faculty and nine seniors of the class of '97. Other chapters of the fraternity have since been established at the following institutions: Pennsylvania State College, University of Tennessee, Massachusetts Agricultural College and Delaware College. The total active membership is now six hundred and fifty-nine, of which Maine alumni number two hundred and two. Those eligible for membership are the twelve seniors who have obtained the highest rank in scholarship for three and a half years, six being elected semi-annually.

ALPHA ZETA

HONORARY AGRICULTURAL FRATERNITY

Alpha Zeta, the national agricultural fraternity, was organized at Ohio State University in 1897. It bears the same relation toward the agricultural profession that Tau Beta Pi and Sigma Xi bear to engineering and general science. Chapters of Alpha Zeta are located in fourteen institutions, as follows: Ohio State University, Pennsylvania State College, University of Illinois, Cornell University, Michigan Agricultural College, New Hampshire State College, University of Nebraska, North Carolina Agricultural College, University of Minnesota, University of Vermont, Iowa Agricultural College, University of Wisconsin, University of Colorado and University of Maine. The fraternity publishes a periodical called the "Alpha Zeta Quarterly."

At the last national convention of the fraternity, which was held at the University of Illinois in 1906, Professor Warner J. Morse and Instructors Percy A. Campbell and Maxwell J. Dorsey were in attendance. The Maine Chapter of Alpha Zeta was established in 1906. The active membership of the chapter now numbers fifteen.

The object of the Mechanical and Electrical Society is to give its members opportunity for the discussion of practical problems in this line of work. To accomplish this aim, able engineers, representatives of leading engineering establishments, are secured to lecture before the society on practical engineering work, and discussions are also planned to be led by various members. Active membership in this society is open to members of the three upper classes, the officers being Juniors.

The Agricultural Club is composed of all the agricultural students in the university. The object of the club is to study agricultural problems of the present day, to stimulate the interest of the agricultural students and to create a strong feeling of loyalty among them. Meetings are held every two weeks, at which lectures on timely agricultural topics are given by speakers secured for the occasion. A number of short trips to near-by farmers' institutes and conventions are taken during the year.

President, R. K. JONES.

Secretary, H. M. ELLIS, '08.

The Press Club is composed of newspaper correspondents in the university and those interested in their work. Weekly meetings are held on Saturday forenoons, at eleven o'clock in the library. For work satisfactory to the English department in character and amount, university credit is allowed to the extent of a fifth of a credit a term.

Vice President,

ARTHUR R. LORD, '07.

Secretary and Treasurer,

RALPH W. REDMAN, '10.

Manager,

ALBERT P. ROUNDS, '07.

The object of the Debating Club is to acquaint its members with the more important political questions of the day and with parliamentary law and to give practice in public speaking. An annual interclass debate between the Sophomores of Bates and Maine is held under the auspices of the club, about the last of April. A debate with the Assembly of the Maine Law School is also given annually. Meetings are held weekly.

LAW SCHOOL ASSEMBLY

President, WILLIAM L. WALDRON.

Vice President, ROBERT W. DEWOLFE.

Secretary, FRANCIS W. THWING.

Treasurer, HORACE D. RIDLON.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

JEROME B. CLARK,

ERNEST L. SEAVEY,

WILLIAM H. HOLMAN.

The Assembly is a vigorous debating society, its membership comprising a majority of the law students. Its purpose is two-fold; first, to train its members in the art of preparing a set debate, and secondly, to develop their skill in concise, logical, extemporaneous argument. All regular law students are eligible to membership.

President, CARL N. GARLAND, '07.

Vice President, MATTIE G. KNIGHT, '09.

Secretary, DANIEL CHASE, '08.

Treasurer, WILLIAM D. HALL, '07.

COMMITTEES

Literature, H. MILTON ELLIS, '08.

Drama, MAUDE B. COLCORD.

Art, SARAH E. BROWN, '08.

The Literati is the student society of the College of Arts and Sciences, and its object is to promote interest in cultural and æsthetic studies, as music, art, literature and the drama. Lectures along these lines are given at the bi-weekly meetings by members of the faculty and others. Active membership is open to members of the faculty and students of the College of Arts and Sciences, while all students and friends of the university may become associate members.

DRAMA

President, JOHN H. BURLEIGH, '07.

Vice President, ELMER J. WILSON, '07.

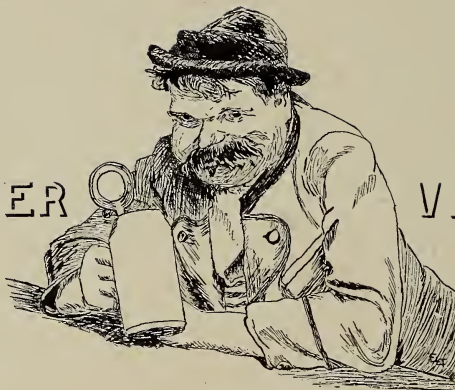

Secretary, WILLIAM D. HALL, '07.

Treasurer, WILLIAM A. COBB, '08.

Manager, DEXTER S. J. SMITH, '09.

The Dramatic Club was organized in 1906, for the purpose of stimulating interest in the drama. The club plans to give at least one college play during the year, usually giving it in May.

The Student Council is composed of four members of the faculty and five undergraduates, three of the latter being elected from the Senior class, and two from the Junior class. The object of the council is to settle amicably all subjects of controversy between faculty and students and thus preserve the usual hearty co-operation of both these branches of the university.

THE ROUND TABLE

President, MRS. GEORGE E. FELLOWS.

First Vice President, PROFESSOR CAROLINE COLVIN.

Second Vice President, MRS. JAMES S. STEVENS.

Secretary, MRS. CHARLES D. WOODS.

The Round Table is an organization for the purpose of promoting good fellowship and mutual acquaintance among members of the university. The membership is composed of the women professors and the wives of professors. The monthly "At Homes" given to the students during the past year have been very successful and have demonstrated the value of this organization.

The Young Men's Christian Association stands for the moral uplift and development of the student body. Speakers from neighboring cities and towns and from the faculty address the Sunday afternoon meetings and the society also holds a midweek devotional service. A system of Bible study classes, meeting weekly, has been formed among the students in the different fraternities and dormitories. At the beginning of each year the association conducts an information bureau of university affairs on the campus. Delegates are sent to all Y. M. C. A. conventions and to the Northfield Student Conference.

The Y. W. C. A. is an organization of the young ladies of the university along lines similar to the Y. M. C. A.

SECTIONAL SOCIETIES

All the sectional clubs organized at the university have the common purpose of furthering the interests of the university in the section which they represent. In addition to this, many of them hold annual banquets in different parts of the state and New England, thus giving an opportunity for the reunion of alumni and keeping the university in touch with them. Pleasant social functions are also given at the university under the auspices of these clubs.

NEW ENGLAND INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The N. E. I. A. A. was organized in 1886 and is governed by an executive council consisting of the officers and three committeemen. These officers convene in Boston the third Saturday in February and arrange for the annual field day which takes place the Saturday preceding the last Saturday in May, also elect officers for the ensuing year. The University of Maine became a member of this association in 1899.

PROCLAMATION

OF 1908 TO 1909

"It has come to our notice with much of regret,
That you FRESH of haught nine are a— Rotten Set;
We find we must show you the right from the wrong;
Were you MEN we should treat you with friendly advice,
But with CHILDREN our ways cannot be overnice,

THE LIBRARY

The announcement of the gift of $50,000 by Mr. Andrew Carnegie for the erection of a library building was made in chapel by President Fellows on February 8, 1905. As soon as possible after this, the trustees arranged for competitive plans to be submitted by architects, and each competitor was provided with a list of items that the librarian of the university regarded as desirable to have provided in the building. Eleven sets of plans were submitted to the committee appointed by the trustees, President Fellows, and Messrs. Henry Lord, E. B. Winslow and E. J. Haskell of the board, and for a report to Professor F. W. Chandler, Professor of Architecture in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who had been engaged as an expert adviser. The plans recommended by Professor Chandler were those prepared by Brainerd & Leeds of Boston, and as they were those which were the first choice of the committee, they were immediately adopted. Bids were advertised for and the contract for erection awarded to the Horace Purington Company of Waterville. The foundation was put in during the fall of 1905 and work on the superstructure begun in the spring of 1906, as soon as the frost was out of the ground. Corner stone exercises were held in June, 1906, and the dedicatory exercises on Nov. 2, 1906. The books were moved from the old quarters in Coburn Hall during the Thanksgiving recess.

The library is a dignified and attractive building, of a modified Greek type, with Doric columns in front, surmounted by a dome. The breadth is one hundred and six feet, and the extreme depth one hundred and ten feet. The exterior is of Hallowell granite, freely accessible. Opening from the delivery hall and the reference room are the librarian's offices. The catalog stands in the delivery hall, near the entrance to the stacks.

On the second floor is an opening in the center twenty-four feet square, surrounded by a gallery, lighted from the dome overhead. On this floor is a lecture hall which has seating accommodations for one hundred and fifty. There are five seminar rooms, each of which is provided with plenty of shelf room, lockers for students, tables and chairs. On the walls of the gallery and the lecture room are hung the greater part of the interesting collection of the University Guild.

The main entrance is through a vestibule into a delivery hall, at the rear of which is the delivery desk and the entrance to the stacks. On the right is the reference room, and on the left the periodical room, each of which is provided with reading tables and chairs; together they accommodate ninety-six readers. To the rear of the periodical room is a room for reserved books, the entrance to which is controlled by the delivery desk, and in this are placed all books which are not

The stacks are fire proof, built of steel, with glass floors, with the walls lined with hollow tile. There are three floors above the basement, and there is shelf capacity for 75,000 volumes. There is ample room for extension to the rear when necessary. The cataloger's room is partitioned off from one corner of the first floor, and has a door opening into the librarian's offices in the main building. The lighting is thoroughly satisfactory. A local telephone system connects each floor of the stacks and the seminar rooms with the librarian's office, the delivery desk, and the janitor's room. There is a telephone connecting the librarian's office with the university branch exchange. The building is heated by steam, the ventilation is good, and the lighting ample and artistic. There are shaded electric reading lamps on the tables, with additional overhead lights where necessary.

The basement is practically above the ground level. It contains a newspaper room, supplied with reading stands, racks, tables and chairs, a club room in which meetings of various student organizations are held and where the monthly receptions of the Round Table to students and faculty take place, store room, boiler room, and so forth.

An additional gift of $5,000 was made by Mr. Carnegie for furnishings, and this amount was sufficient to provide all that was required. The furniture is of Flemish oak, substantial and appropriate. The interior wood work is finished to correspond. The walls of the reading rooms are a light ivory so that with the large windows which they have, they are light and cheerful. The walls of the delivery hall and the gallery are a Venetian pink, and those of the lecture hall a light green, making an effective background for the art collection.

The plans of the architects provided for economical construction, avoiding the unnecessary extravagances which usually result in costs running above estimates. The granite was supplied by the Hallowell Granite Works at a price far below the market rate, and concessions of various kinds were granted by others, so that the building was erected and furnished for the amount of Mr. Carnegie's gifts, the cost being about twenty cents a cubic foot, a sum far less than that for which such a building could ordinarily be erected.

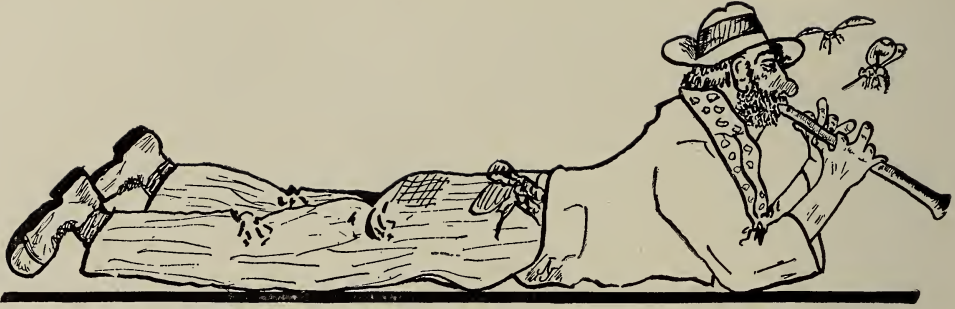

Although Mr. Carnegie has made many gifts, it is doubtful if among them all, is one where the result is so satisfactory for the sum given, or where it will be of greater benefit to those it is designed to serve.

PAYING HIS WAY

By some unforeseen accident and in defiance of all established precedents, Dick Matheas, Sunny Jim McKenzie and Strawberry Holbrook appeared at the Catholic church in Orono one fine Sunday morning. It was Easter Sunday, and the charitably inclined were depositing a thank offering with the priest at the door. With a careless grace that was calculated to show long familiarity with church customs, Dick assumed his most ingratiating manner, plunged his hand deep into his trouser's pocket and fished out a reluctant quarter.

"Here's some for three," said he, carelessly, and led the way in.

BUDDING JOURNALISM

It is not generally known that we have an obscure genius in our midst who is branching out into literary lines. That such is the case is evident, however, from the following letter which was inadvertently left where thieving hands could thief.

R. C. Heath.

My Dear Ralph: I am writing to ask permission to publish some of your letters to my daughter Effie in the "Revere Journal." They are so witty and so precise in their details of college life that I am sure they would make interesting reading. Your story of the "Night Shirt Parade" and the "Peanut Scrap" are just lovely. I trust you will find it possible to comply with my request, and oblige

FIGHTING THE BATTLE

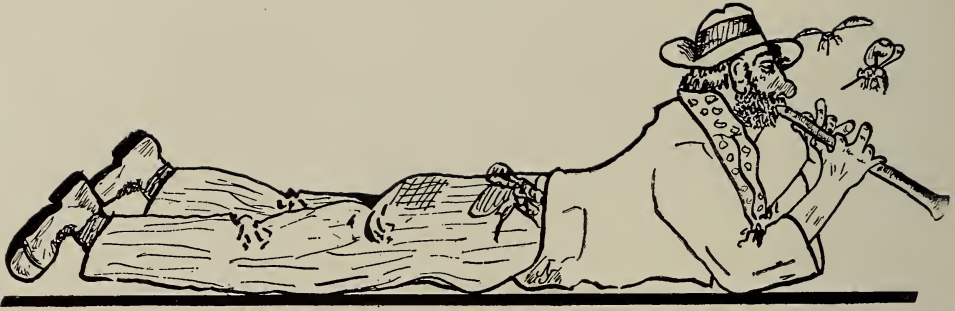

Eli Lambe was loafing as usual down in the corner room when the Reverend LaMarche entered on a visit to Strawberry Holbrook, who is one of his most devoted parishioners. In a minute he spied Eli, who was a member of a former flock down in Calais. With a smile of recognition he laid his hand on the studious lad's brow and solicitously inquired:

"Well, Emerson, my boy, how goes the battle?"

"SAD" DROWNING ACCIDENT

It may not be out of place in these columns to mention the fact that our talented and enterprising young electrician, Hinky Dee, alias A. E. Tremaine, met with a mishap a short time ago.

As we all know, George Henry the Second is a true sport, and he determined to be in the swim, as it were, and take his young lady out canoeing. So Tremaine applied himself with redoubled energy to Janie Hart's practical astronomy so that he would know enough about navigation to paddle his own canoe at the time appointed. Unfortunately, Janie didn't take up canoe navigation.

The time comes round, and Tremaine helps his lady love into the frail birchen craft first, and then boldly but gracefully steps in and pushes off himself. The canoe immediately turns turtle and the girl receives one of the duckings of her life. Hinky Dee anxiously inquires whether she has friends in Old Town who may render assistance, and she saucily replies that she hasn't, and she wouldn't go to them in that condition if she had.

Now is the time when Tremaine, instead of sitting down like the sluggard and repining on his sad fate, shows himself to be a man of initiative and resources, equal to the exigencies of the hour. He escorts the moist maiden far into the solitude of the sylvan forest and there kindles a great bonfire. There they sit in bliss and blister until they are completely dried out and ready for the next blunder into which Tremaine's initiative and resources may seduce him.

The Junior members of the Student Council recently protested against the singing of the college "hymn" by the students. We commend their enterprise but doubt their success in introducing such a radical reform at short notice.

Charles A. G. Blossom, All Round College Athlete.

Of all the young men from New Bedford who are enrolled in various colleges in New England but few have distinguished themselves in any field of athletics while at school. Whether this is due to indifference towards college sports or to inability to cope with the legion of Freshmen who come from preparatory schools and have had special training, it is hard to say. A number of local boys have taken enough interest in various branches of sport to go out with the squads at the beginning of the training season and some have succeeded in landing positions on class teams. But this is an entirely different matter from being so proficient in one of the major branches of sport as to win a place on a varsity organization and eventually achieve the distinction of wearing the college letter—the ambition of nearly every man who enters college and becomes actively interested in foot ball, base ball or track. To win letters in both foot ball and base ball is a distinction even among college athletes themselves, but such has been the good fortune of Charles A. G. Blossom of this city, who is a student in the University of Maine. Before entering college he had gained an enviable reputation as an all around athlete in the High school, serving as captain of both foot ball and baseball teams during his senior year, and meeting with marked success in leading these sports. After leaving High school, he continued to play base ball, holding down a position behind the bat with numerous amateur teams in this vicinity.

This experience fitted him for his athletic career in college, although he found keener competition and better men to meet in this field than in his contests around this city.

Going to college without any previous record and succeeding in winning a letter in base ball and a varsity position in football is a record of which any young man might well be proud and it is interesting to note his progress from the time he arrived at college with aspirations for athletic distinction until he finally secured recognition among the athletes of the school.

Mr. Blossom entered the University of Maine in the fall of 1905, being enrolled in the law school. We went there with the idea of playing football and as soon as the call for candidates came, Blossom trotted out to the field and reported to the coach, asking for a uniform and telling of his intention to play.

"What have you ever done in football?" was asked.

"Used to play on the High school team at New Bedford," he replied.

"Never heard of it," answered the coach, but Blossom was sent down to get his togs, together with 30 or 40 other men, and came out on the gridiron to have his first experience in college football. Falling on the ball and learning signals was all that he had an opportunity to do for the first few days but eventually when it was seen that he did have some idea of the game he was put in at left half on the scrub team to buck up against the varsity, in order to give the real players practice. This scrimmage work is the hardest kind of training for the second, or "scrub" eleven, as it is called, for it is against them that all the new plays evolved by the coaches are directed. The scrub lines up time after time and goes through the grueling work of stopping the plunges of the opposing players. Do this for an hour or two at a stretch without an opportunity to take the offensive at all and the "glorious sport" becomes a meaningless term to the young player who has been pushed and kicked around the field with apparently no chance to show what he can do.

Of course Blossom went through this preliminary work together with the rest of the recruits, but his skill on the defensive soon attracted attention and he was placed behind the varsity men to follow the plays and learn the signals. This accomplished, he was given a chance in practice to get in with them and carry the ball in scrimmages. He showed up to good advantage in this work and when the squad was put on the training table, he was assigned a position with the rest of the regular players.

From this on Blossom appeared in the line-up of the team and when the season started he was one of the halfbacks, a substitute one might say, although during the first part of the schedule he had a chance at some time or other during the games to play. His first real game was against Brown, played at Providence in October. Maine did not show the form that was expected of the team and along in the first part of the second half when Brown seemed to be able to penetrate the opposing line almost at will, Blossom was put in to try and stem the tide. One man of course could not do all of it but he played a good defensive game and when Maine finally took the ball on downs, Blossom was sent against the line with it. To his credit it ought to be said that in the short time he was in the game, he succeeded in carrying the ball a greater distance than did any of the other backs on his team.

In addition to the Brown game, he played in the Vermont and the Colby games, wrenching his knee in the latter contest so badly, however, that he was unable to play during the rest of the season and had to leave the eleven.

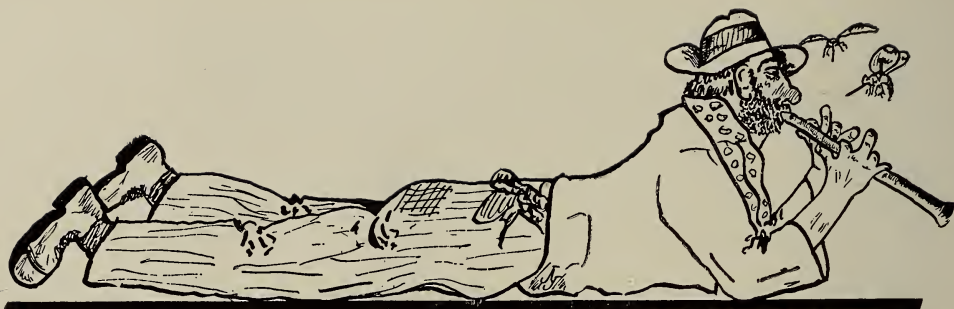

When spring came around and talk of base ball interested the whole college community, Blossom got out his big catcher's mit, sauntered forth to the base ball cage and reported to the coach. He was given a place with the squad and took part in the preliminary batting practice. He went up against the ball in a manner that revealed previous experience, and when he was placed behind the bat and given an opportunity to throw to bases it was quickly proved that he knew something about the game although he hadn't come from some "prep" school with a long record tacked after his name. When the squad was taken out of doors for work on the diamond, Blossom went with it and from then until the end of the school term, he was on the regular list. The schedule called for 17 games and of these Blossom caught 14 full games and played right field during another one. But five stolen bases were credited against him during the season, while at the bat he hit for .285, a remarkably good record for his first year on the team when it is taken into consideration that Maine went up against the best pitchers in the college world last spring.

With base ball and foot ball to take his time, Blossom did not go out for track work, but he intends to start with the squad at college in this branch of athletics, his particular department being in the weights. With no coaching whatever, he has thrown the hammer over 90 feet and put the shot nearly 35.

Last fall Blossom started well in the foot ball season, but he was put out of the game early by injuries. He is now looking forward to the spring's base ball, and it is expected that he will catch every game played by his college this year.

"BAFFLES" LITTLE STUNT AT NEWSPAPER REPORTING

Clipping from the Evening Standard, New Bedford, Mass., January 27, 1907

THE BOOK OF THE ELEVENTH PLAGUE

Now it came to pass that on the fourth day of the ninth month in the year 1905, there appeared on the campus a strange heathen who journeyed from a far country, even Dallas, Texas, where the men weareth whiskers on their pants and six-shooters in their boots, and tanglefoot floweth like milk and honey. And the manner of speech of the man was strange, so that only those of the tribe called "sharks" could understand him.

And in his mouth he bore a strange and wondrous object.

And behold, as the heathen walked forth upon the campus his going forth was heralded by much smoke which enveloped him as in a cloud. And as the cloud settled over the people many were afflicted as with a sore plague, and the distress thereof was great, so that terror and chaos followed in his wake as destruction followeth in the path of the storm.

And the young men of the land gathered themselves together and took counsel among themselves, saying, "What manner of vegetable is this which the heathen sports, and which spreadeth a pestilence abroad in the land, causing sore distress among the people, even among the co-eds?"

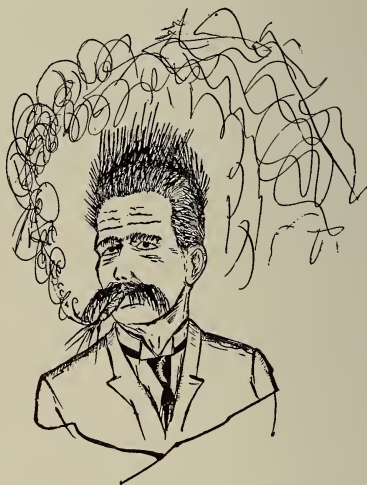

And some said, "It is a miniature fertilizer factory;" others said, "Nay it is yonder pulp mill;" but still others said, "It is naught but the leaves of the skunk cabbage which flourisheth like a green bay tree among the swamps of the Stillwasser."

But the heathen spake nothing but, "Zo! Zo! dot iss great," and went his way, spreading the plague as a pestilence stalketh abroad at noonday.

And the young men spake among themselves, saying, "How can we rid the land of this distress?" And behold two exceeding wise young men, Schmudt and Schmidt by name, who could smoke anything from a coffin tack to a ham, spake saying, "Behold we will put the heathen to the woods, even at the cost of getting stuck in Gm 3a."

And they went out and chartered the University of Maine Band, and stationed it under his window, and bade it strike up "Stabat Mater."

And even as the sound of the trumpets reached his ears the heathen fled, leaving behind his cattle, and his horses, and his fiddle, and his pussy-cat, and all his worldly goods, for his love for good music was even greater than his frenzy for cheap cigars, and he realized that murder was being committed under his very ears.

But even to this day the shade of the pestilential stalketh abroad on the campus at regular intervals, carrying consternation enough to break up a faculty meeting.

THE PSYCHOLOGICAL MOMENT

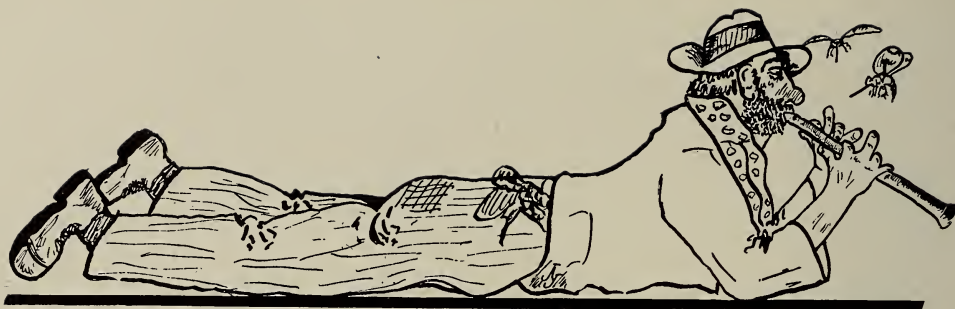

Dr. Fernald — (lecturing on the association of ideas): "Now Miss Aiken, what thought occurs to your mind immediately upon the mention of the word "date"?"

Miss Aiken thinks a moment, and then begins to blush, while the rest of the class sends forth a distracting titter.

STRONG KNOCKS AT STURGIS LAW

Able Argument for His
Abolishment by Hon.
R. C. Heath

AS THE PRESS SEES IT

AN ENGLISH "JOKE"

(This is a sample of some of the table-talk sent in to the PRISM under the categorical cognomen of "Joke.")

The Timid Freshman

Mary, (who thinks the Freshmen have left the room)—"Had we better put Louise in the bath tub, or wait until the river thaws?"

Louise, (behind her)—"O, don't wait on my account. There's no time like the present."

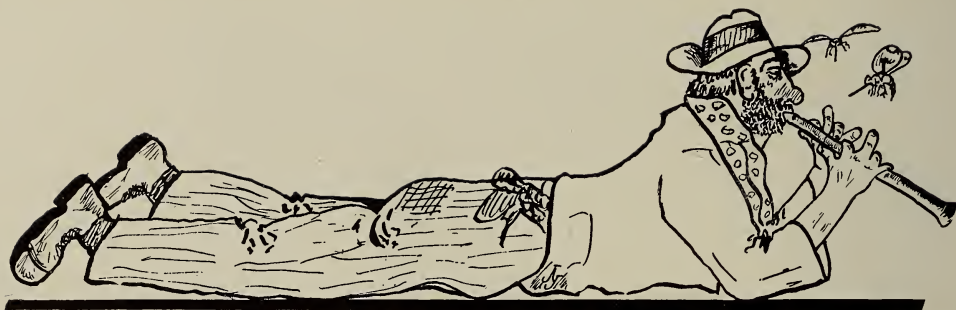

To persons whose sense of humor is deficient this may need some explanation, which is given herewith. The point of the joke lies in the fact that Mary, a Sophomore, took any thought of the presence or absence of freshmen when she wanted to remark upon them. Other subordinate points which add to the humor of the situation are the unparalleled temerity of Louise in remaining behind, and her uncompromising audacity in presuming to dictate the time of her approaching ablutions to the belligerent Sophomores.

From careful inspection and study this appears to be the correct analysis of the joke, but if any one, after looking into the matter exhaustively, sees another explanation, or finds other subtle and delicate humor in it, their views of the matter will be gratefully received at the office of the Lampooner.

U. of M., 1924

After the last football game last fall, H. B. Buck, Class of '93, presented the '06 team with a box of cigars, sending with them his compliments and a snap-shot of the young idea who will learn how to shoot and incidentally several other things at Maine in 1920-1924. We take great pleasure in introducing through its representative, the Class of 1924.

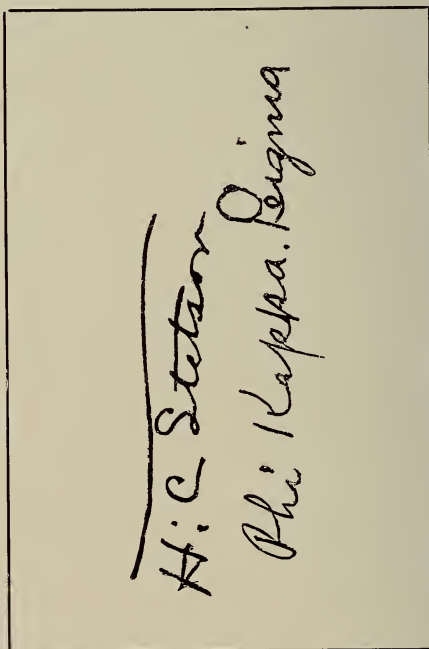

MEDITATIONS OF "ROSBERRY" DEVEREUX

Three is a crowd,
And there were three,
Mary, the parlor lamp, and me.

Two is company,
And that, no doubt,
Is the very reason the lamp went out.

Front

Back

This picture may perhaps be familiar to many students who have visited Chalmers' studio occasionally, as it is one which he was accustomed to dangle in front of those sitting for photographs in order to make them look pleasant. To produce the maximum effect he would show them the two views, as above.

My dear Sir:

We are always glad to have little anecdotes of this kind if not in dialect and if they are sufficiently interesting and well written. If the anecdote you recount in "Downed By Gracious" is genuine, you ought to have put on a pair of good heavy boots and kicked this chap, instead of putting him into print.

Do not send any more of this kind of stuff.

Sincerely yours, .

Caspar Whitney

The anecdote referred to as "Downed By Gracious" was published in the Blue Book of last January. Evidently the Outing shows more discrimination in the selection of its matter than does the Blue Book.

A MATTER OF UNCERTAINTY

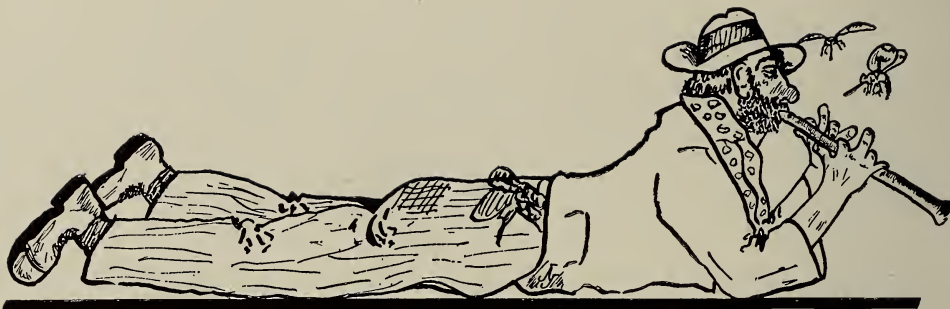

Dr. Fernald—(to York, in philosophy): "Mr. York, is your mind the same as it was when you were a very small child?"

York—"Yes, it is—er—that is, it may be the same but there are additions to it."

"JOHNNY" DOES NOT TAKE IT STRAIGHT

"Block" McKenney tries to explain the structural formula for alcohol on the board and flunks.

"Johnny" Aubert—"Mr. McKenney, you don't expect me to stand here and let you pour that down my throat, do you?"

AND THE DRINKS WERE ON DAN

Place — Beta House. Time — 3.15 P. M.

Door bell rings and Dan Cony goes to the door. A sweet, rustic, corn-fed maiden stands without, with two suit cases.

Says she innocently to Daniel, "Have you any chicken's ends here to sell?"

"Any what?" says Daniel.

"Chicken's ends," says she.

"Chicken's ends!" says Dan.

"Yes, chicken's ends, to sell."

"Well," says Daniel, somewhat bewildered, "I don't think we have, but I'll see Mr. Bird; he's more familiar with those things than I am."

At Dan's call Mr. Bird enters, exuding ecstatically from a corn cob.

Says Daniel, "This is Mr. Bird; he can tell you all about chickens."

Says the sweet faced damsel to Mr. Bird, "Have you any chicken's ends here for sale?"

"No," says Mr. Bird composedly, "we are just out. But I think if you should inquire at the Mt. Vernon House you will find any amount of them."

Daniel collapses.

SOMETIMES

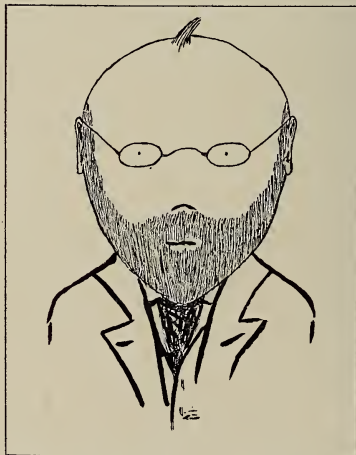

Student — (in Ps. 12): "What is the softest thing in nature?"

Instructor Bearce — "I think Mr. Raymond Fellows will furnish us an example of that."

"WHAT FOOLS WE MORTALS BE"

Honey Estabrooke — (giving an English prelim): "Here are twelve questions on the board. Eight are required to be answered, but you may select these at will from the twelve questions."

Macomber — (somewhat dazed): "Well, how many have we got to do in all?"

ADVICE TO ANXIOUS SWEETHEARTS

(Excerpt from Hearst's Boston American)

Dear Miss Fairfax: — I am a young student and am considered quite good looking by my friends. Although not of a boastful nature I feel compelled to say that I can crack jokes to beat three of a kind. This year a beautiful Freshman co-ed has entered my Eden and my thoughts are all of her. She "is a belle." I am well built, strong, and in my military uniform am a figure well suited to excite feminine admiration. Much to my grief I am so bald that I have to comb my hair with a sponge. I think that she loves me, as one morning a few days ago she let me sit with her in chapel. Do you think she really loves me or is she only four-flushing?

Anxiously,

A. LOTHARIO TODD.

"A Long and Short Arm Couple"

Prof. Gilbert — (to "Ross" Devereux):
"What is worse than ten nights in a bar-room?"

"Rosberry" — "Why two (K) nights in a hen-coop of course; you can't fool me on that." And then they clinch.

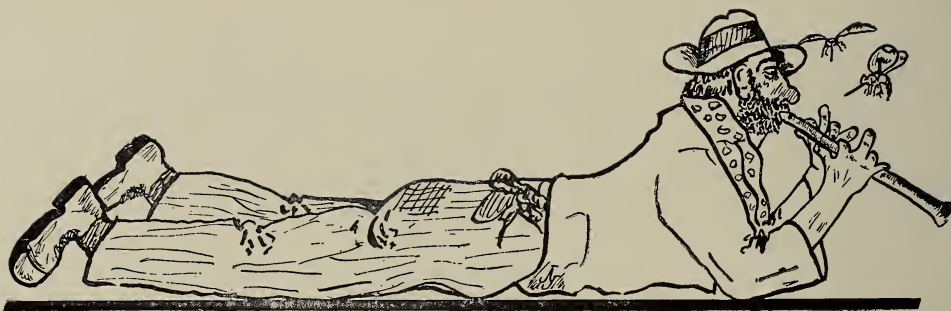

"Ha! By this jolly red beard, I'll show thee what I'm here for."—"Fish" Emery.

"Out, out, damned spot!"—"Flopper"
Sargent's mechanics prelim. marks.

"Second cousin to a government mule!"
—Fisher, '08.

"THE BUBBLE REPUTATION"

Janie — (to Freddie Files, who has just finished "doing" a trig. example): "Did you get the answer all right, Mr. Files—er—without any juggling?"

"MR. ROBINSON IS SUCH A NICE BOY"

One evening our friend P. I. called
On whom you might opine,
The scene was in the parlor,
The hour was half past nine.
A knock came at the doorway,
The matron ushered in
The whole bunch of Phi Kappa Sigs,
Each with an awesome grin.
The boys were clad in bath robes,
Paddles th' intruders bore;
Such a sight the peaceful hen-coop
Had never seen before.
They seized poor P. I. quickly,
They bore him through the door.
They took him home and paddled him
As he a Freshman were.
Of a grave and reverend Junior
Was there ever such a tale!
To picture all its awfulness
The pen must surely fail.
But P. I. now his erring ways
Has reformed forevermore,
For when he visits the hen-coop now
He keeps one eye on the door.

BUT THERE'S MORE THAN ONE

Professor Sprague—"At Ann Hatheway's cottage there is an old lady who entertains you with tea and talk."

Student—"That's about the same as the Round Table, isn't it?"

"What is mind? Never matter. What is matter? Never mind."

THE MAINE CAMPUS

"They stick together so that they cannot be sundered."—"Buster" Boyle and Henry Miner.

"Shake not thy gory locks at me!"
—"Dan" Cony, '09.

"This dull product of a scoffer's pen."—PRISM grinds.

"An ill-favored thing, sir, but mine own."—"Cy" Orne's pipe.

"My life is one demd horrid grind."—Weston, '08.

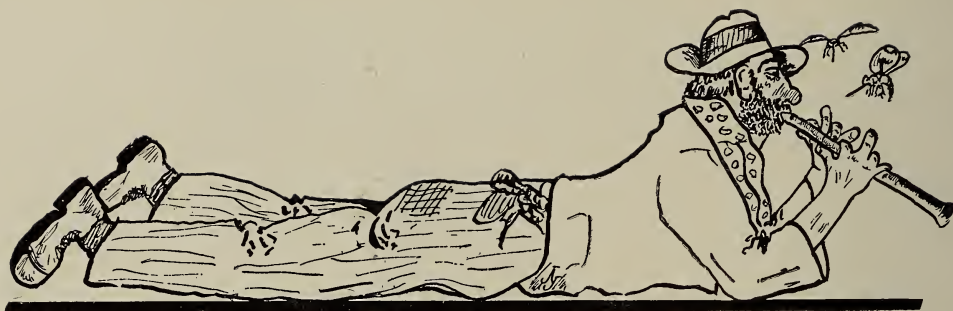

"The dear child was petted by all—and yet her head was not turned."
—Frances Huntington, '10.

"Aye, and he wishes Adam had died with all his ribs in his body."
—Bill Cobb, '08.

A Suggestion

Why Did Steve Farwell Get 23 in His German Prelim?

A miss is as good as a mile
 If she's pretty and young, I'll agree;
 But a co-ed's as good as a thousand miles
 If the miles are between her and me.

CONUNDRUM

What is the difference between a duck and "Doc"
 R--n--ds?

Ans.—In one a little quack comes from a big bill, and in the other a big bill comes from a little quack.

"His voice
 Irregularly deep, and shrill by fits,
 The two extremes appear like man and wife
 Coupled together for the sake of strife."

—Professor Davidson.

"You write with ease to show your breeding,
 But easy writing's curst hard reading."

—Blue Book contributors.

"Seldom he smiles, and smiles in such a sort,
 As if he mocked himself, and scorned his spirit,
 That could be moved to smile at anything."

—Instructor Prince.

"And the voice in my dreaming ear melted away,
 A cadenced murmur."

—Thomas "Machine" Gunn's lectures.

"Eternal smiles his emptiness betray,
 As shallow streams seen dimpling all the way."

—"Hiram" Dow, '08.

Mr. R. C. Turner in his Characteristic Costume

Said a Freshman, "I've oftentimes heard
 That an athlete is frequently slurred,
 But I haven't yet guessed
 Who concocted the jest,
 That the "man in the cage" is a bird."

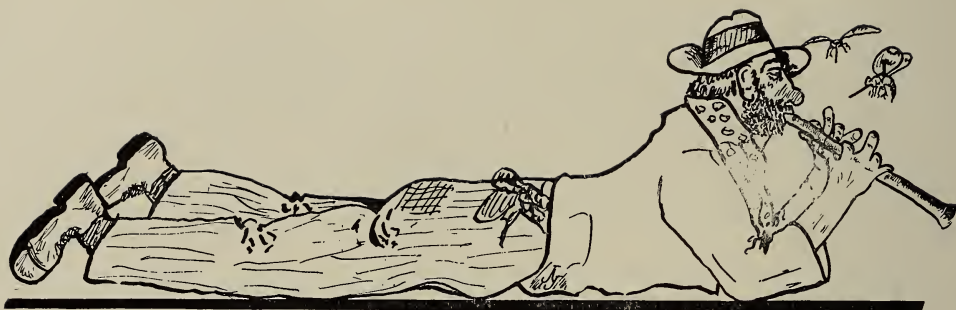

A Hot-bed of Anarchy. Detectives please take notice.

MAROONED

Love may brave all things but you can't expect a true lover to leave his fair damsel to brave a half frozen sea for the sake of a few week's recitations. So thought Bill Hall who was stranded in Dark Harbor last February by the unexpected "freeze in." Bill didn't have a chance to repeat the operation, as it took him until warm weather to make up the work lost.

Is he looking for an honest man?

Not necessarily. He is looking for a delinquent athlete.

Will he find him?

The chances are he will if there is one in college. If not, he will take the one nearest to that condition just for looks. Here’s hoping he has no greater success than his classical predecessor.

CORRECTION

The following communication was sent to the Campus for publication in the column of "Locals." Owing to an oversight of the printer it never appeared, and we take the liberty of correcting in these columns this grave injustice to the Massachusetts Club.

Editor of the Maine Campus,

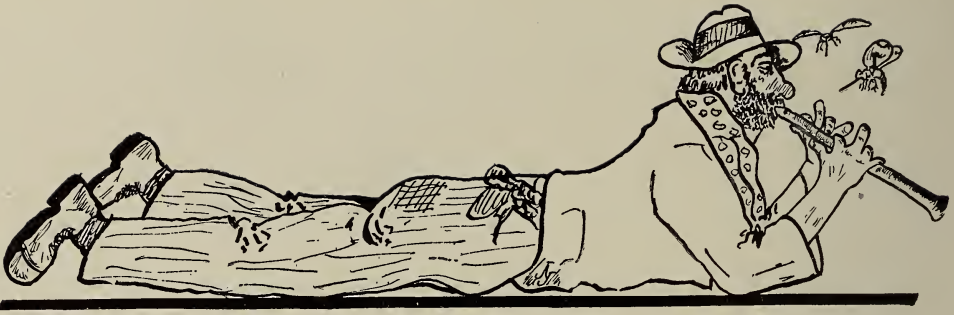

Sir:—At a recent meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Massachusetts Club, the following officers were elected:

President, Miss Anna Bean.

Vice President, Miss Frances Huntington.

Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Frances Huntington.

Entertainment Committee, Miss Frances Huntington and Miss Anna Bean.

Executive Committee, Miss Frances Huntington and Miss Anna Bean.
 Ticket Agent, Miss A. C. Bean.
 Information, Miss F. W. Huntington, Miss A. C. Bean.
 Water-Boy, P. I. Robinson.

April 25. On the evening of this day "Fritzie" Ganong and "Jake" Segall set out for Professor Drew's house, where they are due to attend a reception. The night is dark and the trolley car carries them past their destination. They both dash for the platform and gaze into outer darkness as the car speeds on. "Jump," says Fritzie, and Professor Jacob leaps into the dark jaws of the night. A moment later Fritzie walks back from where the car has dropped him to find the Professor floundering on hands and knees in a small pond of water which sets back into the road, while the blue atmosphere is rent with expletives in French, Spanish, Italian, and plain English. "Jake" doesn't wait to take the train back home, but walks.

"And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew
That one small head could carry all (t)he thought he knew:"

"Stillwater" Reed.

CHRONOLOGICAL COMMENT

Sept. 20. College opens; freshmen wonder and upperclassmen (except those in the "cinch courses") groan as the wheels begin to turn.

Sept. 27. First time in the history of the institution that the Sophomores have to employ something besides gentle conversation in order to make the Freshmen perform in evening dress.

Oct. 1. Freshmen have a bad night, and begin to think that enterprise is a good thing only in moderation.

Oct. 15. Telephone installed in the "hen-coop."

Oct. 16. The "Dirty Dozen" get busy, and mutton goes up on the campus.

Oct. 18. Ordinary telephone batteries prove inadequate in the above telephone and so it is connected with the dynamo in the college power house.

Oct. 18. "Mouser" Reed seen moving his personal effects to the residence of the secretary of the faculty.

Nov. 2. The Library is dedicated, "Goat" Jones loses his self possession and savagely attacks the trophy case in Alumni Hall.

Nov. 5. After some little argument the Freshmen present the Juniors and Seniors, and incidentally a few Sophomores, with several bushels of roasted peanuts.

Dec. 3. Phi Kappa Sigma's steam heater blows up, P. I. Robinson is "friz out" and has to transfer his study quarters to the coop.

Dec. 11. Number "64" narrowly escapes a watery grave under cover of darkness.

Dec. 19. "Skim" Milliken appears in Ps. 14 with his hair cut.

Dec. 26. William Tower arrives and registers for a cinch course in forestry.

Jan. 5. Higgins takes out "Babe" Woods' telephone in the experiment station and "Babe" waxes wroth when he tries to telephone on two wires sticking out of the wall. Instead of "calling up" anybody he "calls down" Higgins.

Jan. 18. Porter Swift tells in chapel how he always enjoys going to the Y. M. C. A. prayer meetings.

Feb. 7. First meeting of the Junior gym classes under the direction of Percy Loring Reynolds, M. D., Y. M. C. A., G. B., P. D. Q.

Feb. 15-22. Bill Hall has pressing business at Dark Harbor and much to his regret is marooned there for a week.

Feb. 26. Co-ed candy sale. Several absences on account of illness next day.

Feb. 24. Ellis escorts Miss Merrill home (part way) in the evening.

Mar. 5. Tom Austin offers to set up the cigars to the PRISM Board if they will suppress the publication of a certain photograph of him in company with others of the sporting element.

Mar. 6. Owing to the celebration on the passage of the University Bill in the House, Prince gives his Freshman English division a cut in the afternoon.

Mar. 20. Todd and Miss White, '10, get the "glad hand" in chapel.

April 1. P. I. Robinson sends his corduroy trousers to the wash for the second time.

April 8. "Sniff" Pennell tells Prexy Fernald a few things about the "existence of a transcendent world."

April 13. The last bunch of copy goes in to the printers, and "Ditto" Trask takes out life insurance for all members of the PRISM Board except "Fat" Lanpher. As he never did any "roasting" anyway, we anxiously await that event in the future.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The Board of Editors take this opportunity of acknowledging with gratitude the aid of all those who very kindly assisted in making up this book. Credit is especially due the persons mentioned below :

THE DOINGS OF MUDGETT

Mudgett "Slicks Up" Clothing

— is a star artist in the Cleansing, Pressing and Repairing business ; does exceptionally nice work along these lines, yet puts his prices popularly low.

Mudgett Provides New Duds

cut to individual measure, for any man that wants them. No ; Mudgett doesn't take the stitches ; he takes the measure, and has B. Stern & Son, of New York fame, take infinite pains to produce the very best suit or coat that skill can fashion or money can buy.

Mudgett Sells Such Furnishings

as young men are anxious and proud to wear — the very latest effects in all lines ; goods that are splendidly made and thoroughly dependable.

Mudgett Sets His Prices Low

— it is his invariable rule ; makes it easy for a fellow to buy what he wants and all he wants, and not "feel" it.

"Be neighborly."

CLOTHING

Success in any business comes from knowing what people want ; and in providing it for them. That's the way we have built up this clothing business. We know that every man wants good clothes ; every man thinks the clothes he buys are as good as he can get for the money, or he wouldn't buy them. There's a variety of opinion as to what good clothes are ; and as to what you have to pay for them ; but clothes-goodness is a matter of fact, not of opinion, and the price is based on the facts, not on what you think about them.

We know that all men consider all-wool as best in clothing ; and want it in the clothes they buy. We know that about ninety per cent of the clothing now being sold and worn is not all-wool, but is part cotton ; in some cases seventy-five per cent cotton. Think of it ? Nine-tenths of the men buying inferior clothes ; goods adulterated and cheapened with cotton.

In other words, we hold that the highest standard of quality is not too high for the clothing business. Cotton masquerading as wool is a fraud, and we believe that fraud in clothes is just as bad as fraud in anything else. The maker of clothes has as great a moral obligation to the public to supply honest quality, as the producer of food. We think the wearer of clothes has some responsibility in the matter, too.

We want you to know the facts. If you have no trustworthy assurance that your clothes are all wool, they're probably part cotton. If you want cotton mixed clothes, all right ; if you don't, you needn't have them.

Our label means all-wool ; you can have it if you choose. It's a small thing to look for, a big thing to find

While in College

You frequently need some article of Furniture—a Rug, a Couch Cover, Window Draperies, or perhaps a Portier to give your room a “homey” comfortable look.

When Through College

There comes to most young men and women a time when they seek the reliable dealer with a long list of House Furnishings. They want Furniture, Carpets, Mattings, Window Draperies, a Kitchen Range, Refrigerator, and often a Piano.

We Have Them All

And in college or out, whether you want a single article or a complete outfit we are bound to please you.

MOORE'S
FOUNTAIN
PEN

While it is true that a good fountain pen will not leak if properly cared for, it is also true that it is not always possible for the most careful to treat it as they ought, while the careless are in continual trouble. These leaking troubles are all obviated in Moore's Non-Leakable Fountain Pen. This pen, is true to its name, it's air-tight and cannot Leak. It is also clean to handle and clean to fill, and for these reasons is a favorite among the ladies, travellers and students, as well as among business men.

The University of Maine

ORONO, MAINE.

The University is divided into Colleges, each offering several courses upon related subjects.

College of Arts and Sciences.

Elective Courses are offered leading to a Bachelor's degree.

Students may elect as their major subjects, Biology, Chemistry, Economics, English, German, Greek, History, Latin, Mathematics, Physics, Philosophy, Romance Languages.

Three years of work, five hours per week each term, in any one subject constitutes a major. Minimum requirements in English, Science, Languages, Mathematics. All other work elective.

SUMMER TERM.—The Summer Term is a department of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The College of Agriculture

The AGRICULTURAL Course, leading to the degree of B. S., is designed for those interested in practical and scientific agriculture, or those wishing to become teachers or investigators of agricultural science, or writers upon agricultural subjects.

SPECIAL Courses are offered in Agriculture, Horticulture and Dairying, for those who can spend but a short time in the University.

CORRESPONDENCE AND READING CIRCLE Courses for people at their homes.

The AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION is devoted to the scientific investigation of topics particularly related to the agricultural interests of Maine.

College of Technology

Each of the Engineering Courses leads to the degree B. S.

The CIVIL ENGINEERING Course is designed for those who wish to become surveyors, railroad, highway, hydraulic, bridge or sanitary engineers.

The MECHANICAL ENGINEERING Course is designed for those who wish to become managers of manufacturing plants or general mechanical engineers.

The CHEMICAL ENGINEERING Course. This course is especially designed for those who intend to enter industries that require a more or less extensive knowledge of chemistry, as well as of applied mathematics and some of the engineering studies, thus fitting them for positions as chemists or managers of manufacturing plants.

The ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING Course is designed for those who wish to fit themselves for any line of practical work in electricity.

The MINING ENGINEERING Course is designed to prepare for practical work in the investigation and development of the mineral resources of the country.

The CHEMICAL Course. This course is designed for those who plan to become professional chemists and analysts or teachers of chemistry.

The FORESTRY Course is designed for those who wish to gain a practical knowledge of forestry. The degree B. S. is given.

College of Pharmacy

The PHARMACY Course is designed for those who wish a broad training, both general and technical, for the practice of pharmacy.

The SHORT COURSE in Pharmacy is designed for those who wish the pharmacy course usually given in the colleges of pharmacy.

College of Law

The COLLEGE OF LAW is located at Bangor, and maintains a course of three years, leading to the degree LL. B.

The GYMNASIUM offers the best opportunity for physical development. Athletic sports under proper conditions are encouraged. Military drill is required of all able-bodied male students during a part of the course.

The students maintain a Glee Club, a Mandolin Club, a Banjo-Guitar Club, an Orchestra, a Military Band, a weekly and a monthly publication.

A student's necessary college expenses, including board, but not including clothing, travelling and strictly personal expenses, need not exceed $225 a year.

For catalogue and circulars, address the President.
